SHELBY OFFERS UP SELF-PRAISE WITH BIG BOUT ASSURED

(By United Press Leased Wire)
SHELBY, Montana, July 4.—Game little Shelby, just a cow town in the far northwest where "men are men" and there is not else beside great open spaces, woke up this morning with a headache, a vacant feeling in the pocketbook and a bosom full of strangers and told the world that Shelby had made good.

After weeks of anxiety and fast operations in finance, after watching its greatest ambition to become more than a water stop and flag station on the Great Northern, blossom and fade and then bloom out into a crop, little old Shelby stepped out this morning and proudly boasted:

"Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons are going to fight here this afternoon for the heavyweight championship."

Cow punchers, oil drillers, miners from Butte, tenderfeet from Chicago and the "far east" milled around and shouted in voices tuned up by near beer and more powerful beverages.

The dance halls were crowded during the night. The tables where the chips were stacked and where the "bones" were parked were going strong. The town was filled with "them agents," as the cow-punchers called the dry men.

Shelby is decidedly a Gibbons town. The cow-punchers figure that Gibbons is one of their own and they are offering to bet their month's salary of "forty bucks" that Tommy is the next champion. There is no Dempsey money in town, because the sentiment of Montana is all in favor of the challenger.

Fight Bulletins

SHELBY, Montana, July 4.—Mrs. Tommy Gibbons, wife of the challenger, can't get excited over the big fight. "No matter what happens, Tommy is still my darling," she said. "He is the finest husband in the world and the greatest father that ever lived. I want to see Tom win because he has lived for this opportunity, but if he doesn't win, it is all the same."

SHELBY, Montana, July 4.—Fair Montana weather—a clear sky, hot sun and very little breeze—dawned for the Dempsey-Gibbons title fight today. Only a few fleecy clouds lined the horizon. All the final preparations for the bout have been made at the arena.

NEW YORK, July 4.—There was no pick up in betting on the Dempsey-Gibbons fight among the New York gamblers today. The big commissioners who are accustomed to handling thousands of dollars on big fights, say less than $50,000 has been placed. The odds have dropped to around 3 to 1, though there still are some big bets being made as high as 5 to 1.

CHURCHFOLK DES MOINES VISITORS

International Christian Endeavor Society Opens Annual Meeting

(By United Press Leased Wire)
DES MOINES, Ia., July 4.—With 15,000 visitors expected and provision made for housing 30,000 if the need should arise, Des Moines today saw the opening of one of the greatest religious events of the year—the twenty-ninth International Christian Endeavor convention, which will last through July 9.

Law enforcement, world peace, religious education, and evangelistic subjects are scheduled to be discussed by a group of such famous public men as William Jennings Bryan, William G. McAdoo, James J. Davis, secretary of labor, Sherwood Eddy, Gipsy Smith, President Francis E. Clark of the Christian Endeavor international organizations, and Sir Lionel Fletcher, special missionary of the New Life campaign.

The program will close with a gigantic mass meeting at the state fair grounds Sunday afternoon, July 8, when Bryan is expected to address more than 50,000 Endeavorers and visitors.

Many Prominent Speakers.
Secretary Davis will speak on "Christian Endeavor and the Home" Thursday afternoon, July 5. President Clark and Sir Lionel Fletcher are scheduled to give their addresses Thursday night. McAdoo and Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon league, will speak Friday afternoon. Wheeler talking on "Christian Endeavor and Law Enforcement" and the former secretary of the treasury discussing "Christian Endeavor and American Citizenship." Dr. Ira Landrith and Dr. John Timothy Stone, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church of Chicago, are the speakers for Friday night. Saturday afternoon Rev. Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, will speak on "Christian Endeavor and World Peace." Hugh S. Magill, general secretary of the International Sunday School Council of Religious Education, also will give an address.

Accompanied by bands and guards, state delegations, in costume, and representatives of foreign countries, in native dress, will march in spectacular parade Saturday night.

Temple of Fine Arts.
One of the features of the convention will be a Temple of Fine Arts, housed in a leading downtown church. It will be in charge of Prof. H. Augustine Smith of Boston university, who will have on display during the session 500 famous prints.

Guides will conduct visitors through art galleries. Prof. Smith has been in Des Moines to direct rehearsals for a pageant of 500 participants and a chorus of 500 which will take part in the fine arts program.

At the opening session today representatives from the Kentucky state reformatory society of Christian Endeavor presented President Clark, the founder of the organization with a convention gavel.

Simultaneous state and sectional conventions and rallies will precede the closing session on Monday night.

Fifteen platforms have been built in the downtown streets to accommodate the huge street meetings which will be features of the convention program.

Nab Woman Driver On Intoxication Charge

OAKLAND, July 4.—Mrs. Augusta Holst, proprietor of a notions store at 1608 West Seventh street, was arrested here for driving an automobile containing several children while under the influence of liquor. Her machine crashed through safety gates at the foot of Seventh street and narrowly missed a speeding electric train. She told the police that she was giving several children of the neighborhood a ride. None of the occupants of the automobile was injured.

Professor Wars On Jazz In Church Songs at Conclave

DES MOINES, Ia., July 4.—Some church refrains may find themselves persona non grata, if Prof. H. Augustine Smith of Boston university, succeeds in his crusade at the International Christian Endeavor convention beginning here today.

Announcing that he will inaugurate a fight against jazz and slang, Professor Smith said:

"Some church music is worse than jazz. 'The child who sings 'I Want To Be an Angel' needs a doctor.'"

FRANCE PAYS TRIBUTE TO U. S. HEROES

Fourth of July Celebration in Paris Honors Americans Who Joined French Colors.

PARIS, July 4.—Franco-American friendship, born a century ago, renewed in the World War and continued since then, was toasted today in the wines of France in half a dozen celebrations of the Fourth.

It received official consecration in the inauguration in the Place des Etats-Unis (United States Square) of the monument erected by French subscriptions to the memory of the gallant American volunteers who faced death on the battlefields of France before the United States entered the war.

The bronze figure surmounting the memorial, which is the work of the sculptor Jean Boucher, represents an American soldier calling to his compatriots to come over the seas and join him. The sculptor modeled the face from photographs of Alan Seeger, the young poet-soldier of the Foreign Legion, who gave his life "at midnight in a flaming town" on July 4, 1916, at Belleau-en-Santerre.

FIREWORKS ARE TO CLOSE DAY AT OIL CITY

Fireworks at 8 o'clock will bring the celebration today at Huntington Beach to a close except for those who wish to round out the holiday in dancing.

In the morning there were swimming exhibitions. In the afternoon a large number of professional entertainers, together with several Huntington Beach young people, amused the huge crowd.

The crowd was beginning to gather at the Oil City early in the day. Extra life guards have been stationed along the beach and other elaborate precautions taken for the protection of visitors by Joseph Rodman post of the American Legion, co-operating with the Chamber of Commerce in the observance of the day.

NEVADA COURT HITS STATE DRY MEASURE

(By United Press Leased Wire)
CARSON CITY, Nev., July 4.—Nevada "wets" celebrated independence from the state prohibition laws today.

They were openly jubilant over the decision of the state supreme court rendered late yesterday holding unconstitutional the prohibition enforcement act passed by the last legislature.

The grounds for the court ruling were largely technical—that the title of the measure did not cover the subject matter.

The law was passed at the last session of the legislature and incorporated the Volstead act in the state statutes.

VAST THROG LURED TO BEACHES

Civil War Veterans Hold Patriotic Gathering at Birch Park

Santa Ana, in common with every other city and hamlet in the nation, today celebrated the 147th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

Making the Fourth a general holiday, the bulk of the city's population spent the day at the county's beach resorts or in the mountains.

Beginning early yesterday afternoon, and again early this morning, an almost endless stream of moving vehicles, bearing thousands of men, women and children from all over the Southland, choked the highways leading through Santa Ana.

At Birch park here, veterans of the Civil War held a patriotic gathering.

Pleds For Patriotism
B. R. Ford of Santa Ana, the speaker of the day, made a stirring appeal for true patriotism, for devotion to the country's flag and its constitution.

There, also songs of praise and of patriotism, music that thrilled the blue-clad ranks of '61, thrilled away the "boys," now members of Sedgwick post No. 17, G. A. R. Estimates at every Orange county beach were freely made that the attendance was the largest in July 4 history.

Far into the night the visitors came, mostly by automobile. Hundreds of these pitched tents on the sand, waiting for the morrow and its attendant attractions.

By sunrise the invading army of pleasure and rest-seekers again had begun to arrive. Automobiles were parked at every available vantage point.

Early in the morning the festivities got under way. Hundreds and hundreds of the visitors frolicked in the chanting surf of the Pacific, which, like its guests, seemed to enter in the spirit of the day.

Special features arranged for the vast throng were to begin at most of the beaches soon after the noon hour.

Under the direction of Gus Heshman, well known leader, the Huntington Beach municipal band appeared in concert for the throng at the oil city. Band music also was provided at Newport Beach and Balboa.

A large carnival, operating under the auspices of Joseph Rodman post of the American Legion, lured a seething, but happy and contented throng to Ocean avenue, at Huntington Beach.

Boat Races Programmed
Later in the afternoon, women aquatic experts, including several near champions, were to appear in exhibition diving and swimming stunts. These were to be held from the end of the municipal pier.

The famed Newport Harbor Yacht club was to hold open house during the afternoon and supervised numerous speed-boat races on the bay. The club was to hold its dinner-dance beginning early tonight.

At the yacht club headquarters, and at virtually every beach, plans were completed for a special program of fireworks during the evening hours.

A special array of colorful rockets and Roman candles will be "shot" in the air from the pier at Seal Beach, according to arrangements made by committeemen there.

Bolshevism Deplored
The Birch park gathering here began at 10 o'clock with promise of large throngs this afternoon.

Ford, who has appeared at various functions here, and whose ability as a platform speaker was well known, placed emphasis on the importance of a strong, nationwide devotion to the fundamental ideals of American government, and for greater respect for the flag and the things for which it stands.

Leviathan Sails On Time On Return To Atlantic Trade

NEW YORK, July 4.—With a deep voiced challenge from her stentorian whistle, America's greatest ocean liner, the Leviathan, slid from her moorings and started on her eastward journey across the Atlantic. Seventeen hundred first, second and third cabin passengers were at the giants' rails, waving farewells to 3,000 who saw them off at the vessel's Forty-sixth street dock.

The Leviathan got away on time; 11 o'clock saw the ropes cast off and the big sea monster answering to the pigmy tugs that puffed about her far beneath her towering decks.

A terrific thunderstorm broke as the Leviathan swung away. There were no bands and no speeches.

POSSES FAIL IN HUNT FOR BOLD BANDIT

Slayer of Sheriff Eludes Capture; May Be Returning to California, Report.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 4.—Edmund Rust, gunman, who has usurped the place of Tommy O'Connor in western banditry, is playing hide and seek with authorities of a half dozen states today.

Rust is wanted for the slaying of Sheriff R. C. Fulker, Aberdeen, S. D., on a Great Northern train Sunday night, for robberies in the northwest and for breaking parole in California and Idaho.

After forcing an autoist to aid in his escape after the slaying, Rust is believed to be hiding in the Twin Cities underworld or to be making his way back to the Pacific coast.

BALLOON CREWS SEEK RECORDS IN BIG RACE

(By United Press Leased Wire)
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 4.—Fourteen balloons will take off here at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the national elimination balloon race.

As the work of inflating the giant bags was completed, tests of air currents were made. Indications are the balloons will drift in a northeasterly direction toward the Great Lakes and Canada.

Pilots predicted the race will result in new long distance flying records for non-rigid craft.

Balloon Minus Net
For the first time in the history of aeronautics, a pilot will take off without any net covering of ropes over the gas bag to support the basket in which the pilot and his aide will ride.

Ralph Upson, of Detroit, is the pilot who conceived this method of reducing the weight of the balloon which will enable him to start with 500 pounds more of ballast than the other pilots.

The balloon was filled with the net of ropes over the big, but it will be cut away just before the start, and the basket of Upson's balloon will be supported only by the fabric of the balloon itself.

"Of course, it adds extra hazard to the flight, but the extra ballast I can carry may mean just the difference between winning and losing the race," Upson said.

Army and Navy
The United States Army and the United States Navy each have entered three balloons. Winners of first, second and third places in the event will represent the United States in the international balloon race which will be started at Brussels, Belgium.

Hold Union Leader
For K. C. Slaying

(By United Press Leased Wire)
KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 4.—Frank C. Recke, business agent for the Fixture Workers' union, admitted today he hired four union men at $5.00 each to "get" Joseph A. Rose, non-union electrical worker, according to police. Rose was attacked and beaten to death by four men.

"It was worth a day's pay to get this scab off the job," Recke is alleged to have said. "I paid the men, according to the union scale, $5.00 per day."

Recke, together with Raymond Shults and William J. Mathews, union members, were charged with first degree murder. Two others, accused of conspiracy in the killing, were not identified.

Police set out to round up the remaining members of the union for questioning.

Party Will Board Transport Late Tomorrow For Alaska Trip

(By United Press Leased Wire)
PORTLAND, Ore., July 4.—The west today for the first time in the nation's history, claimed as its guest on Independence day the chief executive of the nation.

Five other Presidents have, in years gone by, visited the Pacific coast, but today is the first July fourth the west's celebration has the added stimulus toward patriotic feeling which arises from the presence of the country's leader.

President Harding and members of his party were awaited in Portland today with 100,000 northwest residents, in addition to the city's population, jamming the streets to see and greet them.

Huge Crowd on Hand
Not since the national Shrine convocation of 1920 has Portland held the crowd which flocked here today.

Resplendent with lavish decorations, including as their central theme of beauty, strings of huge illumined roses, the city's emblem, Portland awaited the president's coming bedecked in choicest colors.

The Harding special was scheduled to arrive at 9 a. m., coming here from eastern Oregon, where yesterday on the top of Blue Mountain, a far different welcome was given the president and his party.

National Salute
The executive's arrival was to be greeted with the firing of a national salute—boomed out by the guns of H. M. S. Curlew, a British light cruiser here to meet the president. The British vessel is tied up near the five American destroyers sent up the river to represent the navy in today's celebration.

A grand parade through the business district, giving all an opportunity to see Mr. Harding, is the day's first feature. A public reception will follow.

This afternoon on Multnomah field the president will deliver an address, patriotic in nature and befitting the occasion.

Will Visit Veterans
Later in the day President and Mrs. Harding will visit the disabled veterans being cared for in local hospitals—a practice which they have continued, wherever possible, in every city along the route of their journey.

Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Hoover will join the presidential party here today. They arrived yesterday from California and will go on to Alaska and complete the remainder of the tour.

The celebration here will end with a big fireworks display tonight, preceding departure of the special at 10 p. m. At Vancouver, Washington, 11 miles from here, the president will speak for a few minutes tonight from the rear of his train.

Tomorrow will be spent at Tacoma, Wash., the party leaving that city late in the day aboard the transport Henderson, bound for Alaska and more than two weeks study of the territory's resources and opportunities.

CROWD SWELLS AS HOUR FOR FIGHT NEAR

in the clinches and breaking away would be allowed.

This was expected to give the rugged Dempsey a decided advantage because he always does his most effective work at close quarters.

Upon the insistence of Eddie Kane, the builders of the arena changed the ring and made it 21 feet inside the ropes instead of 18 feet as it was originally built. This was to give Tommy more room to keep away from the champion in the early rounds.

While Gibbons prevailed as the sentimental favorite here, most of the critics who have watched the champion and his challenger all through their training were of the opinion that Gibbons had only one chance to win and that one chance depended upon his style of attack.

Claim Gibbons Stale.

Dempsey seemed to be in top notch condition. He trained his own way and gradually worked himself up to the point of perfection.

Gibbons seemed a little stale to his last-minute observers. There was strong evidence that he had over-trained. But no one could make him believe it. He said he never felt better.

Dempsey was expected to weigh in at about 194 pounds and Gibbons at about 175 or less. They are both about the same height, although Dempsey has the advantage in the reach.

In Dempsey's corner for the championship fight were to be Kearns, Jerry Lavatas, his trainer, and Joe Benjamin, California light weight.

With Gibbons were to be Kane, Buck Pape, his trainer, and Bud Gorman, his chief sparring partner.

MAN GETS 10 DAYS IN SPEEDING CASE

H. Henderson, formerly of Yorba Linda, was held in the county jail here today, serving a ten-day sentence for alleged speeding. Justice J. B. Cox ordered Anderson to jail late yesterday after the latter had been found guilty of driving his motorcycle at a rate of more than 53 miles an hour on the El Modena grade Sunday, May 20.

At the time of his arrest by Motorcycle Officer Louis Heffner, Anderson failed to comply with his notice to appear in court. Instead he left Yorba Linda. Yesterday the officers located him at Los Angeles and brought him here.

RIVERSIDE, Calif., July 4.—C. W. Hawkinson, of 435 North Gary street, Pomona, was found dead on the desert this morning 16 miles east of Desert Center. It is believed he died of heat as he complained of feeling ill when he passed through Desert Center. Hawkinson formerly lived in El Paso.

CHORAL UNION HEAD IS BEING AWAITED

Further organization of the Orange County Choral union for its winter work is being held up pending the arrival from the East of Mrs. Ellis Rhodes, who has been appointed business manager.

"We do not wish to go ahead with the details of the organization until Mrs. Rhodes can talk over the plans with us," said Mrs. C. A. McCullah of Anaheim, today.

Mrs. McCullah, as a director of the Choral union, is taking an active part in the organization plans. She outlined the general plan for the coming year and gave the opinion that the success of the union's work was assured, with the pledging of support by the various clubs throughout the county.

Although the executive board of the union still will be made up of union members, the working committees will be headed by business men and members of the union, Mrs. McCullah said.

Immediately upon Mrs. Rhodes' return, announcement will be made of the date of the first winter production, which will be "Robin Hood." According to Mrs. McCullah this will probably be given near Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Rhodes is expected to return to Santa Ana July 16 or 17.

CLAIMS DEMAND FOR DRY FRUIT GROWING

FRESNO, July 4.—Large demand for dried fruit during the coming fall and winter was predicted here by J. F. Niswanger, president of the California Peach and Fig Growers, who returned to the coast after a trip that took him to the principal markets of the country.

"I believe," he said, "that there will be a heavy demand for dried fruits within a few months. I believe, in fact, that the call will be greater than it was last year, provided the prices asked are in keeping with those on canned and fresh fruits."

During the last six months the demand has been light throughout the country. This has been partly due to the relatively high prices for dried fruits as compared with other fruit products and partly on account of the fact that wage-earners everywhere are employed and are receiving good pay and hence are inclined to buy fresh fruit and vegetables in preference to the dried products.

"Through the extensive advertising campaigns being conducted by the peach and fig growers the market is growing larger and larger in all parts of the nation."

Figure this: If you spend all day trying to sell something, and sell it, it has cost you to make the sale whatever your time for the day is worth. The same sale could be made without waste of time. How? By a classified advertisement in The Register.

BALBOA MEN IN STRANGE RAIL CRASH PERIL

Frank Terry and James Smith, Balboa residents, were being congratulated today, following their miraculous escape in what was probably the most freakish series of crossing accidents ever recorded in Southern California. Terry was driving one of two cars demolished within fifteen minutes at the same railroad crossing, by different sections of the same train.

The unusual co-incidence, combined with the fact that not one of the five automobile passengers concerned received so much as a scratch, forms what railway men agree is one of the strangest circumstances in the annals of rail-riding.

Terry was driving his car over the Union Pacific crossing on Whittier boulevard, a mile west of the first section of the Los Angeles Limited, crack transcontinental flyer, bore down upon Smith and him. The car was shredded to splinters, but Terry and Smith emerged cool and unharmed.

The train was stopped and while amazed trainmen and shocked motorists, who had halted on either side of the track, congratulated the fortunate pair, a flagman was sent back to halt the second section, the first train having come ahead.

Mrs. G. J. Gierup, of Los Angeles accompanied by her daughter and another girl, attempted to cross the track, but her car stalled with its tonneau still between the rails. The giant locomotive crushed the car, hurling wheels and other bits of wreckage in all directions.

Again the miracle of escape was performed.

WOULD SELL LOTS BY MEASUREMENT

According to announcement made today by O. W. Hogsett, manager of the Long Beach Sales company, Inc., subdivider of Edinger Square, the company proposes to sell lots in its tract by metes and bounds, as a result of action by the city council Monday evening in refusing approval of a map presented.

The tract is south of Edinger street, and approval of the plat was withheld because proposed streets in the tract running South from Edinger did not conform to the North and South streets North of Edinger.

Council members objected to jogs being made at Edinger street and recommended that the platting be changed to provide for jogs at a suggested new street, running East and West along the South line of the tract.

Streets in the tract, according to the map presented, conform to streets in subdivisions adjoining it on the South.

Edinger Square is outside the city, Edinger street being the South line of the city limits West of South Main street. Hogsett pointed out that the map was presented under a law requiring approval by the city council of a subdivision within three miles of the corporate limits of a municipality.

He further pointed out that refusal by a council to approve a map does not prevent a subdivider selling off lots by metes and bounds. With approval, lots may be sold by lot and block numbers, he said.

DEATH TAKES 2 DONNER PARTY SURVIVORS

(By United Press Leased Wire) SACRAMENTO, Calif., July 4.—The hand of death by a strange coincidence fell yesterday at about the same hour upon two of the few remaining figures of one of California's most stirring historical episodes.

While the news was being received here of the death of Mrs. Martha Reed Lewis, survivor of the Donner party, at her home at East Ewin Lakes, Santa Cruz county, a fellow member of that ill-fated party was breathing her last in her home in Elk Grove.

The second survivor to die within 24 hours was Mrs. Elitha C. Wilder, daughter of Robert Donner.

She was a friend of Mrs. Lewis but because of her weakened condition could not be informed that the ranks of the members of the terrible journey in 1848 had shrunk again.

Mrs. Lewis was 87 years and Mrs. Wilder 81.

Mrs. Wilder was not only famous because she is the daughter of the leader of the Donner party but because of her part in the early history of California.

She came to Elk Grove shortly after the living members of the party were rescued from the snow-bound shores of Donner Lake and has lived there for the past 50 years.

DRUG RESTORES LIFE TO HERO AT BEACH

According to reports from Glendale today, adrenalin, new drug which restores heart action, was successfully applied at Long Beach Sunday in restoring life to George Jacques, 126 North Louise street, Glendale. In saving the lives of two girl companions, following the foundering Sunday of a launch off shore from Anaheim Landing, Jacques was being lauded as a hero.

Wilbur Jennings, a member of the party and brother of the two girls, was drowned. His body was recovered yesterday at Anaheim Landing.

With Helen and Marguerite Jennings, the two men were going forty miles an hour in speed boat when the rudder post broke. The launch plunged under the waves, and Jennings went down with the boat.

Information was to the effect that by treading water, Jacques kept the two girls afloat for nearly three-quarters of an hour before they were rescued by the crew of a Japanese fishing boat.

The exhausted women were pulled aboard the boat. Weakened by his heroic struggle to save his fair companions, Jacques was tossed against the boat and sank. A fisherman rescued him.

Apparently dead, and said to have been so pronounced by a physician, adrenalin was injected into his arteries. In a few moments he recovered consciousness and after an hour's rest at the Virginia hotel, Long Beach, he was strong enough to depart for his home at Glendale.

Jacques declared that during the period he was thought to be dead, he knew what was going on around him. He said his eyelids were too heavy to open.

It was understood that friends at Glendale had started a movement to obtain a Carnegie hero medal for Jacques.

AUTO PILOTS READY FOR SPEEDWAY TEST

(By United Press Leased Wire) SPEEDWAY, KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 4.—Thirteen dare devils—the speed kings of motordom—survived the elimination tests and qualified for the championship 250-mile automobile race scheduled to begin here at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Only a heavy downpour of rain will interfere with the race and prevent a new world's speed record, the world famous pilots felt it be known before the start.

An average of 115 miles an hour was made by four of the drivers in the qualification tests. Tommy Milton with the H. C. S. special he drove to victory in the Memorial day speedway race at Indianapolis, attained a speed of 117 miles on one circuit. Earl Cooper, also driving an H. C. S. averaged more than 115 miles in preliminary spins.

Eddie Hearne and Harry Hartz, piloting a speedy pair of Durant Specials, sped around the board way at an average of better than 115 miles an hour.

Beggars Asking Alms Force Babes to Cry

NEW YORK, July 4.—Recently a rather surprising number of women wearing black hoods, sitting on camp stools, and clasping babies to their bosoms, appeared on New York streets. These women have been taking in profits from $15 to $200 a day, working a new graft in beggary. They are known as "black hoods" to the police who now arrest them on sight. The babies usually are rented—and here is the surprising thing, their cries which attract sympathy often are prompted by vicious pin pricks. Is there reformation in sight for a woman who will do that?

ROTARY CLUB'S BOY BAND HAS 35 MEMBERS

Thirty-five boys who play band instruments were today officially enrolled in the Rotary club's boys' band, as a result of a meeting held last night at the Masonic Temple.

Under the direction of S. J. Mustel, the boys will begin at once on their regular practice schedule. Practices will be held Monday and Thursday night of each week in the Junior high school, it was announced.

Mustel as director of band and orchestra music for the city schools, had made friends with the boys throughout the city. This co-operation between boys and director, it was pointed out, will serve to increase both the size and the success of the new organization.

A service organization primarily, the band will assist at public affairs and serve the county in any way needed.

Eleven trustees from the Rotary club have been appointed to act as a committee to assist and manage the band. An organization among the boys themselves will be formed in the near future, it was announced.

ADVERTISING CLUB COMMITTEES SET

Committees for the recently organized Santa Ana Advertising club were announced today, following the first meeting of the board of directors at James' cafe at noon today.

Purposes and plans for the coming year's work were discussed and the next meeting was set for July 18, at 6:30 p. m., the place probably to be St. Ann's Inn.

Information regarding the club may be obtained from Stanley Reed, secretary, with offices in the Greenleaf building.

The following committees were appointed: Membership—W. D. Hanley, business manager, The Register; Edgar Lentz, Charles Mitchell Paint store; J. D. Adams, publisher of the Bulletin and the Mirror; Gardner Griffith, advertising manager of the Daily News.

Finance—Earl Matthews, Orange County Ignition works; Jack Horsley, Santa Ana Printing company; Stanley Reed, Reed Advertising agency.

Educational and Program—Jack Horsley, chairman; Glenn Moore, advertising manager Hill & Son; Herbert Davis, secretary Orange County Automobile Trades association; W. D. Rudd, National Cash Register company; J. D. Adams.

Wins $432 On Races By Clerk's Mistake

MONTREAL, July 4.—Some are born lucky, others have it thrust upon them. The latter was the experience of a local barber at Dorval race track. He bought two tickets on "Tizen" to win, but was given two on "Hopeful" instead. Discovering the mistake, the "knight of the clippers" raised such an uproar police were called to eject him from the mutual plant.

His rage was converted into something vastly different when "Hopeful" won, netting him $423.40 on his outlay.

BRIDEGROOM TO FACE JURY AS PERJURER

Charged with making false affidavit in securing license to wed Louise Mattox, Jesus Hoyula, of Los Angeles, was a prisoner in the county jail here today under $2,000 bail, having been held to answer in the superior court following preliminary examination late yesterday before Justice J. B. Cox.

Hoyula is alleged to have sworn that the girl's age was 18 when the license was procured here some months ago. At the hearing yesterday he was defended by Attorney Fred Forgy, while Deputy District Attorney D. G. Wettlin appeared for the prosecution.

Among the witnesses was Gordon E. Mattox, father of the girl, who testified that her age was only 14. Mattox stated that he had located his daughter with Hoyula at Wilmington the day after their marriage, and had taken her home with him.

CHURCH PEOPLE PROVIDE FUND FOR REPAIRS

(Special to The Register) WINTERSBURG, AND SMELTZER, July 4.—The community gathering and supper Friday evening at the Wintersburg social hall was an enthusiastic affair. The supper and program were most satisfactory to the committees and all interested.

Added enthusiasm was given throughout the evening by the young people, who, filling one long table of the several laid in the dining hall, gave songs and yells of a lively nature.

Mrs. Nellie Murdock, chairman of the occasion, gave the opening address, explaining the reason for the meeting. The meeting was called, Mrs. Murdock stated, for the purpose of discussing the advisability of remodeling the Wintersburg Methodist church; devising means to carry on the work, and take up more minutely the plans which have been under discussion for some time.

Mrs. Murdock then introduced Mrs. A. H. Moore, superintendent of the Sunday school, as the first speaker. Mrs. Moore gave a history of the church, beginning at the time of its organization, seventeen years ago. The church cost $5,500 and the parsonage $1,500. In the last few years the erection of the community hall was made, adding another $1,500 building to the church property.

W. F. Slater, chairman of the committee appointed to investigate present needs, necessary amount of expenditure, etc., followed Mrs. Moore with the statement that $1,500 will cover the total cost of painting, redecorating the interior of the church and pay off the $200 debt on the social hall.

A response by E. Ray Moore, trustee of the church, was in the affirmative for all proposed work, giving as his opinion that now is the time for it to be done and that it can be done.

In response for the business men, W. J. Soden spoke highly of the asset which the church is to a community and of the approval with which its improvement is favored.

Mr. Soden also responded in the interest of the real estate dealers of the community, citing the advantage which the presence in a community of a church has upon the value of real estate, and the chance for selling lots.

Representing the newcomers of the community, Mrs. E. A. Jones spoke of the impression made on strangers by the church and its influence and social life and the help received therefrom.

Elmer Turner, in lively manner, accepted the duty to respond in behalf of the men of the community who, though they themselves may not be regular in church and Sunday school attendance, have wives and families who are. Mr. Turner offered full approbation for the church and all its departments.

The young peoples' response was heartily given by Miss Lucille Soden, president of the Epworth League and the young people present added their yells and songs in conclusion.

Rev. J. Scott Willmarth, pastor of the church, gave the closing address and a song composed especially for the occasion and entitled "The Wintersburg Church," was sung by John Soden. He was accompanied on the piano by his sister, Lucille Soden.

Following the close of the program a voluntary subscription was taken. The sum of $950 was taken. With considerable more money in sight the proposed worthy undertaking became a certainty and a get-together all-day meeting was at once planned for the middle of August. At that time all contracts on the building can be completed. Bishop Adna Leonard of the Methodist church will speak at the church on the afternoon of this all-day meeting.

Black Peach Aphids Shows at Glendale

J. B. Marleau, county horticultural inspector stationed at Glendale, reports that Black Peach aphid is particularly numerous this season on orchards in Glendale, Burbank and Lankershim districts. Growers are now spraying with nicotine sprays as a control measure for the aerial form. Experiments upon control of this pest in the root form were begun last year by the commissioner's office, but because of unusual conditions it was not possible to carry the work to a point where satisfactory conclusions would be drawn. It is expected that these experiments will be renewed this season.

Haig Reciprocates Legion Greetings

INDIANAPOLIS, July 4.—Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, has received a letter from Sir Douglas Haig, commander of the British forces during the world war, thanking him for a message to the recent convention of the British Legion from the American organization, delivered by Hanford MacNider of Mason City, Ia.

"It seemed to me that your splendid words found an echo in the hearts of every one present," the letter stated, in part. "To your wish, 'Let us be comrades in peace,' I hasten to assure you that that is the sincere wish of every member of the British Legion. The aims of our respective legions seem to be identical for all practical purposes, and I hope that by some means we English-speaking ex-soldiers may become more closely affiliated. Please convey to your colleagues of the American Legion the heart-felt thanks of the British Legion for your assurance of fellowship which we cordially reciprocate."

The legion was represented at the convention of British veterans by Mr. MacNider and Milton J. Foreman, of Chicago, past national commanders.

LEGION TO DEMAND PEACE, WAR PLANKS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 4.—The American Legion will serve formal notice on the two major political parties to include in their platforms planks providing for peace and war.

It will demand: 1. A world tribunal for peace. 2. A law empowering the government to draft capital, industry and all material resources of the nation, as well as fighting men, in time of war.

In an exclusive interview with the United Press, Alvin Owsley, commander of the Legion, made public this decision.

International and domestic chapters of the Legion are formulating plans for the peace tribunal and Owsley believes the completed plan will be presented to the International Allied Veterans, which meets in Brussels this fall.

With Actors, on the Screen

A scene from "Down to the Sea in Ships," spectacular photoplay now showing at the Temple theater here. The picture will close its engagement Sunday night.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

YOST—"Stepping Fast," with Tom Mix

WEST END—"Souls for Sale," with Richard Dix and all-star cast.

TEMPLE—"Down to the Sea in Ships," with Marguerite Courtot.

PRINCESS—"Quincy Adams Sawyer," with Blanche Sweet.

"QUINCY ADAMS SAWYER" IS PRINCESS OFFERING

Blanche Sweet has returned to the screen!

The delightful film favorite will be seen at the Princess theater tonight in "Quincy Adams Sawyer."

The return of Miss Sweet is one that will be welcomed by all film fans as well as by her many friends in the motion picture industry.

She retired a few years ago on account of ill health, and it was not until recently when she was married to Marshall Neilan that she again appeared in the public eye.

Miss Sweet returned to Hollywood from New York with her husband recently. She had no intention of going back to the screen at this time, but was persuaded to do so by her husband and friends, who were aware of the possibilities of her role in "Quincy Adams Sawyer."

She has the part of Alice Pettinelli the blind girl in this famous story of New England life by Charles Felton Pidgin.

Brea Church Has Pledges Made for Splendid Building

(Special to The Register)

BREA, July 4.—With $13,000 already subscribed and real estate in possession which can be sold for about $10,000 the congregation of the Brea Christian church was today visioning the construction of a church building to cost approximately $25,000.

Evangelistic Meetings Held

A series of evangelistic meetings at the church has brought the desire for a proper place of worship, one that will be large enough to care for the religious needs of the congregation, to a high pitch. The $13,000 in pledges was secured in one evening when the congregation was solicited.

The Rev. W. E. Spicer, in speaking of the kind of church his people want, declared, "The idea of our work is service and the saving of souls. We want a building suitable for the community, nothing fancy with a lot of fables."

The pastor was enthusiastic over the growth of the church. From a beginning about nine years ago the church has now nearly 130 active members with the 200 mark only a matter of time. The evangelistic services have had much to do with the swelling of the church roll, he said.

Departments Scattered

At the present time the church plant is scattered over a number of buildings. The boys have a log cabin while the "S. O. S." Sunday school class uses a bungalow for meeting place. The primary department is housed in an annex. The parsonage is utilized by the adult members of the church. Other branches have separate quarters.

Rev. Spicer hopes for 200 enrollment in the Sabbath school before the close of the year. At the present time the Sunday school has about 180 members with twenty-three teachers. There are 120 babies enrolled in the Cradle Roll which are not considered yet as members of the Sunday school.

Rev. Spicer said that because of his trip this year to his old home in Lorraine, Ill., the annual summer camping trip of the Sunday school boys had been called off.

Rev. Spicer will also visit in Eureka where he attended Eureka college and on his way back early in September will attend the annual conference of the Christian church in Colorado Springs. He will reach Brea again by the middle of September.

He took considerable pride in the fact that thirteen of the young people of the church are attending the annual conference which is be-

ROMANIAN LIFE FILMED IN NEW PICTURE

For the first time in the history of motion pictures, the colorful life of southeastern Roumania—the home of the Tartar and gypsy—has been filmed in "The Law of the Lawless," Dorothy Dalton's latest picture, which will be on view at the West End theater for three days, beginning tomorrow.

Gypsy stories have been filmed, but never in the colorful setting of Dobruja, the little-known and romantic Roumanian province which numbers many native gypsy tribes among its inhabitants.

Donald Bercovici, a gypsy author, wrote the story of "The Law of the Lawless" for the screen from his own personal experience in his native land.

Romance, drama and stirring action are packed into every scene of the story. Dorothy Dalton gives a superb characterization of the hot-headed, high-spirited Tartar girl and she is ably supported by Theodore Kosloff in the role of the Tartar lover and Charles de Roche as the gypsy chief. The latter makes his first American appearance in this picture. Tully Marshall is also featured.

REALISTIC MUTINY IN PICTURE AT TEMPLE

The mutiny staged by Elmer Clifton, producer and director of "Down to the Sea in Ships," which comes to the Temple theater tonight, on board the square-rigger, "Charles W. Morgan," was in no sense of the word a "strawberry festival," but a real he-man fight.

Captain James A. Tilton, engaged as skipper of the craft, which was engaged for an actual whale hunt in the Caribbean Sea, rehearsed with Clifton an actual mutiny which he participated in years ago, and which was staged with genuine and realistic fury.

The chains and cage which constituted the "brig," in which the villainous first mate is incarcerated after the mutiny, was procured from the Dartmouth Historical society, and were the original chains in which were brought back the prisoners in the famous mutiny aboard the schooner "The Bounty," that sailed the seven seas in the long ago.

Tom Mix scores official qualification as a champion trick automobile racer in his latest offering, "Stepping Fast," which begins a two-day engagement at the Yost theatre tonight.

In this highly charged melodrama of astounding thrills and romance, Mix enlists the U. S. A. and China for his excitement locale. He and the lovely heroine escape from a dungeon in darkest China, when Mix lassoes a mouse and ties a "help message" around its neck and puts it out the window. Back across the Pacific they dash in a speedy yacht and race the blackguards to the hidden treasure.

The supporting cast is headed by Claire Adams. Others include Donald McDonald, Hector Sarno, Edward Pell, George Seigmann, Tom S. Guise and Ethel Wales.

Mission Inn Chapel With Wedding Guests Provides Lovely Scene

With the beautiful St. Cecilia window of the chapel at Glenwood Mission Inn, Riverside, as a background, the wedding yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock of Miss Sarah A. Gardner and Eugene G. Hoff of this city was a quietly impressive one for which a little group of close friends gathered.

A charming informality prevailed when arriving guests were greeted by Miss Gardner and Mr. Hoff and lingered in the pleasant court of the inn to chat until the chosen hour approached. Then, gathered on the steps leading to the altar, they listened to a delightful recital preceding the ceremony.

To the organ accompaniment, Miss Adena Wallis of Pasadena whistled Cadman's "At Dawning" followed by her sister, Miss Virginia Wallis who whistled "Love Like the Dawn, Comes Stealing" also by Cadman. The two talented young girls then joined in a duet number, "The Dawn of Love" by Friml.

Norina Brown Coleman followed with a solo group, her lovely voice ringing through the chapel in "Because" by d'Hardielot; "Just An Old Love Song" from "Robin Hood" and "Teresa del Riego's" "Thank God for a Garden." The softly played strains of the final song were used as the precession to which the bride and groom approached the minister, awaiting them at the altar.

Miss Gardner was lovely in a French gown of rose with lavender velvet sash whose color was repeated in the soft ribbons tying the butterfly roses which she carried in her arms. Her lovely hair was dressed high with a Spanish comb with brilliant rose settings. She was attended by Mrs. Eleanor Elliott while Don Miniken acted as Mr. Hoff's best man.

Dr. J. Lewis Gillies read the impressive wedding service of the Methodist Episcopal church. The surroundings were very beautiful. Tall brass jars held a variety of old-fashioned flowers, larkspur, hollyhocks, gladioli and Canterbury bells. The light was from countless tall tapers and the pair of beautiful seven-branch candlesticks on the altar. All floral decorations had been arranged by a close friend of the bride, Mrs. Raymond Cree of Riverside. Mrs. Cree and Mrs. Wallis also planned the flower motif for the tables where an elaborate dinner was served following congratulations and the signing of the bride's book. The balcony of the patio was arranged with small tables surrounding that of the wedding party. Each was centered with flowers from the desert places so beloved to both Mr. Hoff and his bride. Guests found their places by means of exquisitely hand painted little cards each representing a different desert blossom. They were the work of Edmund C. Jaeger, an eminent naturalist of Riverside whose books on the desert are accepted as standard works by students and naturalists.

Following the elaborately served dinner with its accompaniment of beautiful old love melodies played from a balcony high over the patio, where a harpist stood, the party adjourned to one of the corridors where Mrs. Hoff tossed her bouquet to the expectant group. Mrs. Pearl Kleiberger was successful in catching it and bore the flowers in triumph back to her Victorville home.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoff will remain at the inn until late this week when they will go to Pasadena to occupy the pretty Wallis home while Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Wallis and their daughters are at the beach. Later the happy pair plan a leisurely motor trip to various mountain and valley beauty spots are returning to Santa Ana.

Only the closer friends were bidden to the ceremony and those who found it possible to attend included Mrs. C. G. Perry, Mrs. M. A. Yarnell, Mrs. Eleanor Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. John Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Olivari, Messrs. Jack Neelands, Z. Bertrand West Jr., A. J. Perkins and Don Miniken of this city; Dr. and Mrs. J. Lewis Gillies, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cree, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Gould, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Wallis, Miss Adena Wallis, Miss Virginia Wallis, Pasadena; Mrs. Florence Brown, Mrs. Pearl Kleiberger, Victorville; Dr. Elizabeth Davis, Dr. John Davis, Mrs. Harriet Haney, Loma Linda; Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Gould, Alhambra; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tedford, Glendale.

Personals

Mrs. Mary Rowley and Mrs. Ella Parker plan to leave tomorrow for an automobile trip to the Yosemite in company with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Soest. Mrs. Soest will be remembered as Miss Grace Parker.

The Rev. Jerome L. Parker, of West Third street, has returned from a few days spent at his cottage at Balboa Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mize and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mize are enjoying a brief vacation at Big Bear valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Hill and their daughter Barbara are visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Mosher, 1428 Spurgeon street. They are here from Grand Rapids, Mich., where on August 1 Mr. Hill will become postmaster. When Mr. Mosher was county clerk at Grand Rapids, Mr. Hill was his deputy and succeeded Mr. Mosher as county clerk.

If Your Summer Gown Must Have Sleeves In It They Must Be Bizarre Declares Dame Fashion

"To have sleeves or not to have sleeves. That is the question—"

And every woman, as she plans her very best dress-up frock for garden parties and such pleasant events of the summer, wonders whether to omit sleeves altogether or whether to use some of the fascinating new styles in arm adornment.

For where sleeves exist at all on summer dresses, they are startling, bizarre or gaily frilled, and present or absent, are quite the most important thing of the season's styles.

Long fitted sleeves perhaps have an added frill from wrist to elbow. One otherwise sleeveless frock is shown with a circular band attached to the dress and crossing the arm several inches below the shoulder. Long wide sleeves vary their lines by being cut to gracefully drooping points. Skirts draped continue in favor and pleated panels are seen more and more as the season advances.

World Court to Get Support of Legion

INDIANAPOLIS, July 4.—President Harding's plea for American entrance into a world court will be supported by the American Legion, it has been announced at national headquarters of the veterans' organization in Indianapolis. The legion's action was authorized in a resolution adopted at its last national convention recommending the establishment of a tribunal to adjudicate disputes between nations.

Defining the attitude of world war fighters, Alvin Owsley, legion national commander, in a recent address delivered at Sioux Falls, S. D., said: "Let no man say this American Legion has not inaugurated a great movement for world peace. We have the honor of seeing the present administration adopt the legion's idea of a world court plan. There must in the end be some such a tribunal."

Commander Owsley in the same address indicated that the legion would continue its fight for exclusion of immigration for a period of five years.

"When did it become a moral privilege for a man to leave his country when that country never needed him as it does now?" he asked. "Let them remain at home and work a while longer for their home country, so those countries may be enabled to pay their debts to America."

Asserting that lack of immigration restriction is responsible for the fact that there are ten million illiterates in America, the legion leader said:

"We need a sweeping Americanization program to take care of these vast numbers already within our boundaries, but as long as the flood gates of immigration are open we shall never be able to get a start on this problem. If I had it within my power, there would be a law that every man enjoying the privileges of this land and living under the radiance of the American flag who attempted to start any bolshevism or communism would be deported."

PERSONALS

Planning to depart tomorrow on a three days' hunting trip, Jack Olivari will join a party including Fred Kahler and Jimmie Collins together with a few others from Los Angeles and motor up in the mountains where both hunting and fishing will be possible. Mrs. Olivari will spend the three days in Los Angeles with her daughter.

Wife Doing Good Work

"I have been bad off with stomach and liver trouble and bloating for many years. No doctors or medicine helped me. On the advice of my druggist, I bought a bottle of May's Wonderful Remedy and I don't want to miss a single dose. It has given me more benefit than all the medicine I have ever taken. I feel I am doing good to recommend it to others." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.—Adv.

Dr. and Mrs. Kellogg Congratulated By Amused Friends

In childhood days, the wish is oft expressed that one might go to sleep after the Thanksgiving dinner and sleep right through to Christmas morning. But very few grown-ups would choose to lose any more time than necessary in sleeping away the years. Even Rip Van Winkle's long rest was not exactly of his own choosing.

Nevertheless, if all accounts might be believed, Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Kellogg must have slept for twenty-five years, for when they thought they were celebrating their silver wedding anniversary last Saturday, the "infallible" society editor declared them to be celebrating their fiftieth year of wedded happiness.

Dr. and Mrs. Kellogg wondered and pondered and finally decided that they had been awake most of the time so that the date of June 30, 1898 which they had always remembered as the happiest day of their lives, was quite correct after all. For it really was just twenty-five years ago that Dr. C. E. Kellogg won the hand of Miss Blanche Monk and their wedding was celebrated at Shenandoah, Iowa.

And it was in celebration of twenty-five years of happiness that guests gathered Saturday evening at the Kellogg home, 423 South Broadway, to take the "bride and groom" by surprise and to offer happy wishes for many more added years together with a pretty basket containing twenty-five shining silver dollars, one for each year.

Dr. and Mrs. Kellogg are today receiving the amused congratulations of a host of friends, and many laughing comments on their "fast living" which could crowd fifty years into twenty-five.

CALIFORNIA READY FOR LEGION MEET

SAN FRANCISCO, July 4.—California is preparing to demonstrate her advantage to the 150,000 world war fighters expected to attend the American Legion's national convention in San Francisco next October. Citizens from outlying cities and towns, industrial and commercial centers, farmid regions and the ranch country will assemble in the convention city to welcome the visitors.

California's products and her assets of wealth are to be displayed effectively in a large electrical parade to be held on one of the evenings during convention week. Every county in the State will be represented by floats bearing typical exhibits, enhanced by groups of pretty girls and ornamented by electrical effects. One hundred bands, representing cities and towns, many of them from legion posts, will march in the procession. Visiting legionnaires, who will have marched in the customary military parade on one of the convention mornings, will be permitted to sit on the side-lines to watch the California boosters demonstrate their state pride.

Chambers of Commerce and legion posts throughout the State are preparing to spend a quarter of a million dollars on floats for the night parade.

Pastor Swings Ax to Get $350 to Buy Auto

EAST ORANGE, N. J., July 4.—The Rev. Charles F. Taylor, pastor of the fashionable Elmwood Presbyterian church, is hewing a virgin forest, having underbid all the local contractors in the village on the job, to buy a flivver with the $350 he will earn.

The Rev. Mr. Taylor, looking anything but clerical in ancient khaki trousers and a white shirt without the vestige of a collar, was discovered yesterday afternoon under a broiling sun. He swings a wicked ax.

ORANGE PAVING DISCUSSED BY COUNCIL MEN

(Special to The Register)
ORANGE, July 4.—Verbal "fireworks" whizzed between Mayor Gunther and Council members at the meeting of the city council. The occasion was the hearing of a protest of North Pine street property owners, represented by Mr. Barnett and Mr. Garber, regarding the concrete paving recently completed on Pine street.

Asks Expert Opinion
"In my personal opinion, there are a few hair cracks in the paving, but these are common with concrete. They will in no way interfere with the wearing qualities of the job," McBride said.

He then enumerated several influences which he claimed might cause checking in concrete. The cement, he said, might not be up to standard, the materials might be dirty, the mix might be "stony," or evaporation might be too rapid. "The only reason might possibly be from hot winds blowing over the surface," he added.

Delegates Demur
This occasioned comment from the property owners' representatives as to why the city should be responsible for the contractor's mistakes if he poured the concrete under unfavorable conditions.

Words grew thick and fast until Mayor Gunther interrupted by saying, "The city will do everything in its power to protect the property owners, rest assured of that."

Then started arguments about lawsuits, tests, personal observations and remarks. "While I do not know much about concrete yet I saw, etc.," until the mayor again interrupted by saying, "The city is not going to get mixed up in a lawsuit and get into something and then have to withdraw to save its neck."

Claim Pavement Cracks
It is the contention of the property owners that the paving job is not up to standard. According to Mr. Barnett, there are cracks about a sixteenth of an inch wide, and deep enough to receive a knife blade in their depths. This, he contends, is not a first class job.

On the other hand, Mr. McBride stated before the council that, in his opinion, it was a good job. The paving was laid down during April and May of this year by Garretson and company of Long Beach. According to testimony of the city engineer of Orange, the job was handled in the proper manner.

After a lengthy discussion, the protest was laid over until next week to give the city council time to investigate the matter thoroughly. It will be taken up at the next meeting of the council Tuesday. The job has not been formally accepted, and will not be until the protest is settled, it was said.

RINGSIDE NOTES OF ORANGE COUNCIL

ORANGE, July 4.—With two of the city council members absent on vacations, a short session of the city council was held yesterday afternoon.

Among the business transacted was the granting of a permit to the Shell Oil company for the installation of two underground storage tanks.

The resignation of Gene Fisher, formerly night merchant police, was read and accepted. No formal filling of the vacancy was made. The city marshal was authorized to fill the position temporarily.

One hundred dollars was subscribed to the community fund to be used to further the Y. M. C. A. summer program for Orange. George Sherwood, superintendent of schools, appeared before the council and outlined the plan of work. The Rotary and Lions clubs and the elementary schools each have given a like amount, Mr. Sherwood pointed out.

The Pacific Electric railway company will be asked in about two weeks to pave their tracks on Lemon street, the body decided. The matter was brought up, and it was agreed to communicate with the company as soon as the paving contractors, who have been working on Lemon street, remove their equipment.

FULLERTON GIRL REAL HEROINE

RENE FAUVERE

GIRL SWIMMER RESCUES TWO FROM SURF

FULLERTON, July 4.—Rene Fauvere, who came to California two years ago from Virginia, to make her home with her cousin, Mrs. A. B. Corona, 213 East Truistlow street, this city, proved herself a heroine when she plunged into the surf near Anaheim landing and brought in two men who were weakening fast.

With friends Miss Fauvere was reclining on the beach. She noticed a boat capsized and that the occupants were having great difficulty in the water with their heavy clothes. Miss Fauvere swam seventy-five yards to the weakest of the group and started for shore. Before she reached shore another one of the occupants of the boat grabbed her bathing suit. With the two men she made for the beach.

With the assistance of Fred Hezmelbach of Fullerton, first aid was administered and the swimmers suffered no ill effects from their plunge into the ocean.

Although Miss Fauvere won a diving medal in Norfolk, Va., she said that she had never had an opportunity to learn how she would act in a case of an emergency. Those who witnessed her swimming feat are loud in their praise of her ability and her nerve.

Child Hurt, Orange Is Presented Bill

ORANGE, July 4.—The sum of $108.15 was asked as damages from the city of Orange by Julius Borchard in a petition presented yesterday at the city council meeting.

Mr. Borchard claims that through negligence of the city, his four-year-old son fell into an uncovered manhole late in February of this year, and the amount represents money paid out by him for doctor bills, nurse services and medicines. The matter was referred to the city attorney for investigation.

AUTO THEFTS ARE CLEARED AT BEACH

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 4.—Another paragraph was recorded on the police blotter here today in connection with the disappearance of two automobiles last Saturday night with the discovery in Los Angeles yesterday of a Chevrolet car said to be the property of a Mr. Gallagher, a pumper, who makes his home in Costa Mesa.

Saturday evening, William Jones noticed that his speedster was missing but took it for granted his friends had taken it for a ride. Reporting the matter to the police he was told that the automobile had been seen heading out of the city.

The Jones car later was found in a pool of heavy oil and water in the oil fields where it had been abandoned. Jones decided to leave it there until it could be pulled out in the morning. Oil workers are said to have promised to "keep an eye on it." During the night everything that would come off, including the rubber mats on the bottom of the car, was removed.

Gallagher, after the discovery of the Jones car, began to look for his and "found it missing." It is presumed by the police that the lighter model was pressed into service when the speedster and its load came to a halt in the pool of oil and water.

Clever Dancers Are to Appear At Beach Today

Nella Onson, with the arched arms, and her sister, Betty Onson, with the wide brim hat, are two of the Huntington Beach youngsters who will appear today on the program in connection with the Fourth of July celebration.

Electrical Arch On Orange Street Urged by Chamber

(Special to The Register)
ORANGE, July 4.—A municipal arch for Orange was taken under advisement by the city council at its meeting yesterday afternoon.

L. F. Coburn, representing the Chamber of Commerce, outlined the chamber's plan of a municipal arch to be erected at West Chapman avenue and Main streets. A letter from the chamber was also read in connection with the arch.

The advertising fund of the city would be drawn upon for the erection of this arch, Mr. Coburn stated.

Suggest Subscription
"If there is not enough to cover the entire cost, I believe the chamber could raise the remainder by subscription, the money to be repaid out of next year's advertising fund," he explained.

It is the idea of the chamber to have an arch, electrically illuminated, to span Chapman avenue at Main street. The structure would be substantially built of concrete and steel, and would carry an inscription reading, "ORANGE," and road marking signs.

Other Towns Have Arches
Mr. Coburn pointed out that many other towns have this advertising means, and that it is highly profitable.

Mayor Gunther appointed the superintendent of streets as chairman of a committee to work with a committee from the Chamber of Commerce. This body will work out plans for the arch and present them to the council at a later meeting. The census of opinion among the councilmen was that the idea was a good one.

KING TUT GARB NO LONGER IS "THE THING"

ORANGE, July 4.—The King Tut vogue of women's dress has joined the silent caravan that wends its way to that sweet oasis beyond the vale and into the land of the Golden Scarab, across the River Styx.

Verily, verily, it could not be found on Orange streets yesterday. What were thought to be glimpses of the ancient Egyptian motif were too fleeting for inspection. Alas, alas, art is long and dress is fleeting, or something like that.

Paraph Stuff Taboo.
All seriousness to one side, there really isn't so much of this Paraph stuff seen on the women who shop these days. Where formerly the mummy wrap and the rainbow panel adorned Milady we now have the organdie dress and the light things of the truly American summer.

Merchants interviewed here yesterday were unanimous in one thing, the King Tut vogue has run its race and soon will be an also ran.

Style Too Flashy.
Some thought that it was too flashy to stay, "a style to remain with us long has to be less gaudy." Others ventured the assertion that the caprice that dictated women to tie themselves to the museum to get a new idea for a gown had been weighed and found wanting. When every one wears the same thing there isn't any "kick" in it for anybody, therefore all the women are discarding the Egyptian things for clothes more sane. Only the flappers embrace the King Tut clothes.

In connection with the disappearance of the Tut-Ankh-Amen habits some took occasion to liken its demise to that recently recorded in The Register in connection with peon pants. Peon pants aren't done, you know, by the up to date young male. The "Shebas" are just as anxious to get rid of the bizarre adornment that has been swept upon them, according to reports here.

And so the Sheks and Shebas are casting about for something new to clutch in the way of peculiar, soul satisfying raiment, merchants said. As soon as this general trend takes a particular turn merchants will be happy for as things go now they never know just which way the wind may turn. The Quaker Maid may walk our streets tomorrow if somebody has the "punch" to put the fashion over, they claimed. Woe to that vender of silken things who has not a generous supply of Priscilla Alden habiliments upon his shelves, once the tide begins to flow.

And so, who knows. Art is long and love is fleeting, or ords to that effect.

TUSTIN PEOPLE RETURN
TUSTIN, July 4.—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Means returned Saturday from Yosemite National park, where they have been camping for the last two weeks. Not content with the vacation afforded at the park they left Monday evening to spend several days at Anaheim Landing, near Seal Beach. Their original intention had been to join the S. W. Stanley family at their home in the San Diego mountains. They are expected to return home tomorrow.

FARM CENTER MEETS
TUSTIN, July 4.—The meeting of the farm center held last night in the high school auditorium was well attended. An interesting picture, "Too Much Speed," proved to be a drawing card. Added attractions were a one reel comedy, a reel of travel pictures and two reels of agriculture news of statewide interest. These pictures are being shown at nearly all Orange county towns.

POOL BIG NEED AT ORANGE IS CLAIM MADE

(Special to The Register)
ORANGE, July 4.—"I feel mighty keenly that a swimming pool is one of Orange's greatest needs," said C. E. Morrow of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday in speaking of the "Y's" summer community plan for this year.

"I have been trying to get a pool for a long time, and I yet believe that we will have one," he added.

Use Creek Wallows
Youths of Orange now frequent water holes along the creek, or are forced to attend the ocean beaches miles away, he pointed out.

"As it now is, we have planned swim trips for the boys, and we are using a rancher's reservoir just out of town," Mr. Morrow stated.

The Y. M. C. A. at Orange has worked out a summer plan for the whole community. Earlier in the season, $500 was subscribed by various business organizations of Orange for a summer program. The Rotary and Lions clubs, the elementary schools and the city each subscribed $100. The American Legion and the Y subscribed $50 each towards the fund.

The work was placed under the supervision of the local "Y." The results so far have been a baseball league, swim trips for the boys, tennis and a playground for smaller children.

School Field Secured
The use of the Orange Union High school athletic field has been secured for the entire summer. Tennis courts have been marked off for the use of men and women. Baseball is being encouraged, and all sorts of outdoor sports are being offered to the public without charge.

That the venture is proving successful is evidenced by the fact that interest is increasing daily in the work, and that the "Y" is having no trouble in getting teams and individuals interested in events.

"We have worked hard to get it," Mr. Morrow remarked, "but we have succeeded in interesting all the civic bodies to the extent where it is a going thing."

MOVING CONTRACT FOR JAIL AWARDED

ORANGE, July 4.—F. F. Thorpe, house moving contractor of Santa Ana, was awarded the contract for moving the city jail and street cleaning barns at the meeting yesterday of the city council. When bids were opened, Mr. Thorpe was low man with a bid of $250 for the entire job. Next lowest was Robert Mapson with a bid of $240, providing that the city furnish motive power. The highest bid was by O. V. Dart of Santa Ana, for $310. The city jail and the street department equipment barns are now situated on Olive street, just south of Chapman avenue. Ehlen and Grote, owners of the lots, are erecting a set of new store buildings, which has made it necessary for the city to move its equipment.

Three lots have been purchased at Pikey and Almond street. The moving of the structures will be started early next week.

Orange Personals

ORANGE, July 4.—Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Damewood will leave for their summer cottage at Balboa July 9. They will be gone at least two weeks.

M. R. Archibald, who since February 26 has been with the city as paving inspector, left Saturday. His leaving was occasioned by the completion of the present paving program.

J. B. Kilgore has taken out a building permit for the erection of a $3,000 frame dwelling and garage at 910 East Palmyra street.

Miss Claire Bonnelle, librarian, is out of the city on a month's vacation in the Southern hills.

DAIRYMEN OF

Whole Milk Computed40 RANCHES INSPECTEDProduct of 66 Per Cent of Local Dealers Is Sold at Less Than Cost

The average prices the dairyman receives for milk and butterfat are less than their production actually costs him, was the conclusion drawn from an extensive survey conducted in Orange county and elsewhere in the Southland by the University of California college of agriculture, the results of which were made available here today.

This final report of a state-wide study is the result of a request made two years ago by representatives of the industry that milk and butterfat production statistics be compiled showing how much it costs to produce a pound of butterfat or a gallon of milk.

Staff Out 18 Months.

For a year and a half, R. L. Adams, professor of farm management, has directed the work of the staff of four men engaged in collecting and compiling the data needed to determine these costs, including labor, feed, and other factors which much be considered.

During this time records were kept on 246 dairies located in eleven of the principal dairying sections of the state, from Del Norte county on the North, to San Diego county on the South, and including a total of 14,250 cows.

In the Los Angeles-Orange county districts, forty dairies, containing 2,242 cows, were studied.

Production was centered on whole milk, although payment was made on the basis of the butterfat content.

Total Cost $3.73.

The cost of production in 1922 was found to be $3.73 per 100 pounds of whole milk. The average price received by this group of dairymen amounted to $3.50 per 100 pounds, thus resulting in an average loss of 23 cents per 100 pounds. Of the total output of these dairies, 66 per cent was sold at less than the cost of production. Twenty-one of the forty dairymen were so affected. The average annual production per cow amounted to 8,041 pounds of whole milk, or 309.2 pounds of butterfat.

Other sections carefully studied during the past year and a half by the staff of investigators from the University of California included Humboldt-Del Norte, Marin-Sonoma, Alameda, Contra Costa-Santa Clara, Sacramento-Yolo, San Joaquin-Stanislaus, Fresno, Kern, San Diego, San Luis Obispo, and Monterey-San Benito-Santa Cruz.

WISCONSIN HEN HAS ROOSTERS PLUMAGE
AT PERIOD OF MOLTBoth Crows and Cackles on Suitable Occasions and Plays Double Role

MADISON, Wis., July 4.—Nope! There's nothing wrong with the top picture. Pete's a rooster and all that. Likewise he's a champion layer.

Residing in royal pen at the Wisconsin agricultural experiment station here in cockiest manner, be-proclaims to the whole world that the quality of his eggs is beyond compare. Pete is by no means the first egg-laying rooster on record.

History recounts similar creatures, dating back to the middle age, which aroused the suspicions of the simple folk of the countryside.

Science investigating the phenomenon attributes the monstrosity to a psychological change in Pete's hen nature during the time of molt which caused him to take on rooster plumage and adopt a crowing war cry, instead of his former modest cackle.

On record here, too, is a buff or-plumaged rooster, the property of Mrs. J. W. McDermitt of Coffeyville, Kan., shown in the second photograph. This rooster brooded and hatched six chicks.

While the hens of his barnyard strut independently around him, he nurses his chicks, clucking at them like a mother, yet not forgetting to crow at proper hours. He still manifests some masculine independence, though, and in the lower picture he is shown "taking the air."

CONTRABAND FRUIT
NABBED BY AGENTS

When the steamer Mail of the Matson Navigation company pulled into the dock the week of June 18 with 277 passengers, Quarantine Inspector Bruce Bryant came ashore with two packages of Hawaiian grown avocados and mangoes which he had secured in his preliminary examination of the ship's cabins and state rooms.

One package of the pears upon examination was found to be heavily infested with live maggots of the Mediterranean fruit fly. This was found in the cabin of a passenger who had been enjoying the fruits during the passage over. When the fruit was cut open and the maggots revealed, the effect on the passenger was in itself a punishment.

"It is difficult for those who are not acquainted with the effect of the fruit fly to realize the extent of infestation, and after one has partaken heartily of several fruits there is certainly a nauseating effect produced when one is cut open by the inspector and the contents revealed writhing with animal life," Bryant said. The other package was taken from a drawer in the pantry of the deck steward who was immediately apprehended.

The state quarantine law against the introduction of Mediterranean fruit fly is being very vigorously enforced, and the disposition of these violations will be held in abeyance until all circumstances are thoroughly investigated, it was warned. The fruit was immediately destroyed by burning.

PRUNING URGED IN CULTURE OF MELONS

The following was issued today from the office of the Orange county farm bureau here:

"Pruning, to many watermelon growers, is a comparatively new operation. Pruning means removing all irregular and injured melons from the vines as soon as they appear, and allowing not more than two melons to the vine. This will permit the melons to grow more rapidly, become larger, and mature earlier than is possible without this operation.

"Pruning is usually begun after the melons have reached a length of four or five inches; by this time, the owner can tell whether the melon will have the shape that is required for the marketable melon. When the two melons have set, and started growing, then all others are kept clipped off until the crop has virtually matured. This requires three or four prunings at intervals of about seven days apart.

ADVERTISING IS CHIEF WALNUT
BODY EXPENSERapid Production Increase
Makes Publicity Need to Create Big Demand

The California Walnut Growers' association disburses more money for advertising in a year than it does for any other individual item of expense, it was disclosed here today when a complete copy of the annual report made by Carlyle Thorpe, general manager of the organization, at a directors' meeting in Los Angeles recently, was received here.

"Because of the rapid increase in production of walnuts," said the report, "the association's output having doubled in the past few years, heavier advertising has been necessary in order to maintain a consumer demand equal to or greater than the fast increasing supply.

"Consequently, in recent years, advertising has been by far the largest single item of expense in connection with the operation of the association. Notwithstanding the fact that the association includes for its members in selling cost such expenses as advertising and maintenance of inspection, field, legal, legislative, growers' service, and all other departments, its charge to members has consistently been and was for the 1922 season among the lowest, if not the lowest cost for selling any non-perishable food commodity produced anywhere in the United States, whether that commodity was marketed by a co-operative organization or a privately owned corporation.

1922 Crop Poor One

"The quality of growers' 1922 crop deliveries to packing houses (with a possible exception of the districts North of Los Angeles county) averaged poorer than for several seasons past. This was largely the result of the very severe heat wave which visited the Southern districts about the middle of September, when the kernels of the nuts were still in a tender state. During this unusual spell of weather the mercury rose in some sections to above 115 degrees, causing the green husks on many of the nuts which were directly exposed to the rays of the sun to blacken and dry up and become firmly stuck to the shells, also actually cooking the kernels to the extent that the burnt nuts, when harvested, showed black, shriveled, stained and moldy meats, or were less severely burnt, partially shriveled and discolored meats. The percentage of this character of damaged stock was greater than in any crop since 1913, and in the districts most severely affected, made necessary much heavier grading and culling than usual.

"A considerable number of growers have registered complaints on the subject with the local packing houses, culled their deliveries. Such growers are urged to bear in mind the fact that the actual consumer of walnuts is not acquainted with and is not even interested in the difficulties which confront the grower in producing walnuts. The consumer's attitude is simply that she is paying a considerably higher price for imported walnuts than for imported walnuts; that she is paying a price high enough to expect good merchandise, and consequently demands satisfactory quality. It is absolutely impossible for any industry or any national sales organization to obtain a fancy price for inferior or unsatisfactory merchandise. The American public will not be fooled.

Imports Increase

"Therefore, if Old Sol hands our walnut growers a blow in the solar plexus, they must take the count and smile; the consuming public won't take it for them. There may have been instances where culling was too severely done, but this was never the case in any well managed plant, for while some growers have complained about the severity of the grading, at least an equal percentage of customers registered complaints because the grading was not done thoroughly enough.

"The absolute fact is that the California walnut industry is facing heavier and more severe foreign competition each year; for instance, during the calendar year of 1922 there were imported into the United States 48,035,741 pounds of walnuts—a larger amount than has ever been imported in a twelve months' period, and this in spite of the fact that duties have been increased from two to four cents on unshelled walnuts and from four to twelve cents on shelled walnuts. These imported walnuts were sold to the trade at an average price of approximately fifteen cents a pound, as against an average price of all association holdings of between twenty-two and twenty-three cents a pound.

"Foreign walnuts are not all of such inferior quality as many growers seem to believe. Many of the lots will crack 90 per cent good and more, and practically all of the meats are bright in color. Of course, some lots of foreign walnuts are not so good, but much of the poorer stuff has been sold at prices ranging from six to ten cents a pound, while the very best quality goods sold during the fall months averaged from fourteen to eight cents a pound, which is considerably below the California average."

POULTRY TESTS TO BE MADE
THIS WEEKCulling of Flocks Will Be
and Other Cities

Poultrymen of Orange county are anticipating much profit from a visit to the county this week by R. B. Eason, agricultural extension specialist of the University of California.

The unprofitable hen, sometimes called the "boarder hen" is said to be the cause of low profits in the poultry business.

With the purpose of teaching poultrymen how to cull their flocks to eliminate the unprofitable layer, the Orange county farm bureau has scheduled four culling demonstrations to be conducted by Eason.

They will be held as follows:
Garden Grove, July 5, 10 a. m., at the corner of First and Garden Grove boulevard, two miles south of Garden Grove, on W. E. Van Gorder's place.

Demonstrations Over Friday
Cypress, July 5, 2 p. m., at J. L. Eason's place, one-half mile West and one-quarter mile North of Cypress.

Costa Mesa, July 6, 10 a. m., at the ranch of H. B. Woodruff, East on Twentieth street to Tustin avenue, North on Tustin, first house on West side.

Tustin, July 6, 2 p. m., at the ranch of W. S. Hatch, which adjoins the Tustin high school grounds on the North and East.

At these demonstrations Eason will show how flocks are culled and explain why the culled birds should not be kept in the flocks.

"Unfortunately there are a few pullets and hens in every flock that are just as regular eaters as any in the flock, but when it comes to squaring up by producing correspondingly, they are exceedingly backward," said W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor, in discussing the plans for the culling demonstrations and their usefulness to the Orange county poultrymen.

Test Gives Proof
"As the margin of profit per hen is low, one boarder may eat up the profit from half a dozen or more hens," said Cory, pointing out the fact that to keep many boarders in the flock may eliminate all profits.

To illustrate his point Cory gave the following statement:

"Production records of five flocks were kept over a six months period, beginning in July, 1921. These flocks had been culled with 1516 at the average number of culled hens and 2179 the average number of selected hens."

"Through this six months period the selected hens averaged 55 eggs, with the culled averaging 36.7 eggs. This meant a gain of 18.3 eggs per hen, with a total value of the increased production amounting to 75 cents per hen at the market prices."

Progress In Fighting Cherry Pest Is Told

"Bacterial Gummosis of Cherry," is the title of an article published in April Better Fruit, at Portland, Ore.

This article discusses the progress of the disease, its dispersal, and control by cutting out and treating cankers with disinfectant. The Mazzard stock is resistant and can be used for top working. The conclusion is given that the use of resistant varieties will constitute the ultimate solution of the bacterial gummosis problem.

Hecke stated that Governor Richardson is desirous of having the department of agriculture render every possible assistance to the farmers, fruit growers, and cattlemen of the state and in selecting the advisory council it was his idea to have this group, composed as it is of growers, be representative of agriculture in every sense of the word.

Decrease In Peach
Twig Borer Is Noted

A notice able decrease in prevalence of Peach Twig borer is noted in orchards in the Burbank and Lankershim districts of Los Angeles county, as a result of spray applications made last fall for this pest, according to J. B. Marleau, county horticultural inspector for those districts. Orchards which had badly infested last season show from 60 per cent to 70 per cent decrease in infestation with the previous year.

PIG INDUSTRY NETS

IOWA LAD ONLY 17

Herbert Willer Watches Fortune Grow.

GROWERS SHOW
STATE AID

SIOW CITY, Ia., July 4.—Instead of "pigs in pigs," Herbert Willer of Woodbury county, Iowa, would say that "pigs is wealth."

Starting four years ago with a single pig which cost $10, Herbert has sold hundreds of her grand-children and great-grandchildren, has a young herd of 230 pigs and has taken over the hog business on his father's farm. All the animals in his herd can trace their descent directly to the first pig, Trixie, a pure bred Hampshire.

Herbert now is 17. He was 13 when he went into the business. His story has just been received at the office of the national committee on boys' and girls' club work in Chicago.

"My pigs need all the room we can spare on our farm, so dad doesn't raise any," says Herbert. "He and I are in partnership. I pay half the expense except grain raised on the farm. We'll divide the net profits when I'm 21."

Aside from the hog business, Herbert is a champion calf raiser. His shorthorn calf won first place at the Interstate fair here last fall in the competition of boys' club shorthorns. The same calf then was entered in the beef calf competition for all breeds and took third place.

A few days ago, Director Hecke and members of the council conferred in Los Angeles, San Diego, Riverside, Santa Ana and other places in the southern part of the state, with fruit growers, dairymen, and others interested in production and distribution, with reference to the future activities of the state department of agriculture.

The committee, which is representative of agriculture, horticulture, and stock raising, consists of James Mills, orchardist, chairman, Hamilton City; A. T. Spencer, president, California Wool Growers' association; Judge Peter J. Shields, livestock and dairy interests, Sacramento; A. C. Hardison, president, California Farm Bureau federation, Santa Paula; and Carol Rodgers, fruit grower and packer, Watsonville.

Hecke stated that Governor Richardson is desirous of having the department of agriculture render every possible assistance to the farmers, fruit growers, and cattlemen of the state and in selecting the advisory council it was his idea to have this group, composed as it is of growers, be representative of agriculture in every sense of the word.

The members of the agricultural advisory council are giving their time without remuneration and are visiting the various localities of the state at their own expense. In addition to discussing agricultural affairs with growers and cattlemen, the members of the council are meeting with the chambers of commerce in the various cities visited. Through the medium of this council, Governor Richardson hopes to keep in close touch with agricultural affairs and will be in a position to receive first hand information.

Seize Mangoes Under Quarantine Statutes

The steamer "Coahuila" of the Mexican Navigation company, plying between San Francisco and Mexican ports, was searched upon its arrival at the dock in San Francisco by Inspectors Stewart Chatterley and W. N. Ross and pronounced free of contraband fruit. The inspectors, however, suspected the actions of the crew and returned at a later date to make a further examination at which time an ordinary three-gallon milk can was found full of Mexican mangoes, which are contraband under the California quarantine law as host fruits of the Mexican fruit fly. This violation has been brought to the attention of the company operating this line as well as the captain and crew of the vessel in a way that will assuredly preclude any future instances of this nature.

PEST ERADICATORS HAVE QUEER NAMES

The division of chemistry of the department of agriculture, which registers the various remedies and poisons used as ammunition by the farmers of California against those members of the animal kingdom that got by Noah—the only man who had a fighting chance against them—claims to have the most unique assortment of trade names and brands in the state; if not the most blood thirsty and expressive of all the deep hatred of vermin that the English language is capable of. It's kill-death exterminate and any way to get them. The most prominent is the "kill" family. No matter what the enemy, special or general, there is a "kill" on the market ready for him. If it be a flea then use Kill-A-Flea, or Kill-A-Flea or, if you prefer, Kill-A-Mite; if an ant then Kilant, or a grasshopper, then Killhopper; or a cockroach, then try Kill Roach Powder. If, however, you don't know the species of the rascal, then by all means use Kill-A-Bug or Kill-A-Pest and, if you don't care what you do, then Gotoit with Kill-all and you are sure to exclaim Eureka! Tizil! You are certain to do something by the use of Sure-Death and at least get quick action by applying Devils Dust. Hoist the Black Flag and make War on Pests. Take a Sure-Shot, sit back and Watch It Get Em and your cattle are certain to enjoy Cow Ease and Cattle Comfort when you have Novermo, No Fly At All, Novermo Ants, and even believe that you really have Novermo, but best of all No-Odor-Zone, by eradicating Gopher Scents.

T. M. Pierce, chief inspector for the division, responsible for the foregoing, says his inspectors are going to add another brand to the list which they will call Death-2-Fakes to be used against tree doctors and similar pests and it will be guaranteed to Kill-Em-Quick.

HUNTER WINS WAY TO TENNIS FINALS

William M. Johnston, California, beat B. E. C. Norton, and will meet Hunter in the final.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 4.—Francis T. Hunter, American, won his way to the finals of the men's singles in the all-England tennis championships today when he beat Gordon Lowe, England, in straight sets, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4.

A large "Independence day" crowd witnessed the triumphs of the American which presages an all-American finals match, with Hunter probably meeting William M. Johnston of California.

The American forces suffered an early loss when Mrs. Mallory, who was put out of the women's singles, met defeat in the women's doubles this afternoon. Paired with Miss Bancroft, the American woman's champion lost to Mrs. Chambers and Miss McKane, crack English team, 6-3, 6-0.

Suzanne Lenglen, world's champion, defeated Mrs. Beamish, conqueror of Molla Mallory, in the most convincing exhibition the French girl's tennis wizardry ever displayed. Suzanne, a veritable whirlwind, completely outclassed the sturdy British player, without losing a game in two straight sets.

In The Big Leagues

George Morridge, the lean south-paw of the Senators made only one mistake yesterday. He grooved a fast one for Babe Ruth in the fifteenth inning. The Bambino hit a home run, won for the Yanks 2 to 1 and ended a terrific pitcher's battle.

Schliebner, Browns first sacker, threw away a good ball game when he tossed wildly to first in the ninth inning and let in two White Sox runners. Chicago won, 4 to 3.

Irish Meusel clouted two home runs and drove in the Giants' four runs helping John Watson, who was making his first start for the Giants, beat the Phillies, 4 to 2.

Detroit used five pitchers to turn back the Cleveland Indians, knocked Clevelander out of the box in the 8th and then scored four runs off Bedgood in the tenth, winning 12 to 8.

Pittsburgh scored two runs in the fifth, breaking a 2 to 2 tie and captured the game from the Cards, 4 to 2.

Cincinnati bunched hits off Kauffman and defeated the Cubs 6 to 5, making it two straight for the series.

HOW JACK DEMPSEY ROSE FROM HOBO TO WORLD'S CHAMPION HEAVYWEIGHT

Jack Dempsey, world heavyweight champion, whose title three big men—Gibbons, Willard and Firpo—are out to capture, is naturally the big star of the year of heavyweights. Much has been printed about him—good and evil. Henry L. Farrell, United Press sports editor, knows Dempsey inside and outside the ring, and has written a series of three stories about him.

CHAPTER 3
Jack Dempsey has always been extremely popular with the newspapermen. Jeffries was a rather sullen sort of a person, Jack Johnson was irresponsible and Jess Willard was openly antagonistic. They assumed the attitude that their position entitled them to space and service from the papers and Dempsey might have been pardoned if he inherited the same idea, but he never did.

Dempsey is just naturally genial and affable and he has made himself accessible to newspapermen at any hour of the day or night. When he was in Atlantic City training for Carpentier, he showed as much concern in seeing that the sport writers were provided with every convenience as he did in getting himself ready for the defense of his title. Feature writers were always after him with trick questions for stories and he was always willing to do or say anything he could that would provide a foundation of facts to make their stories good.

The champion has a keen sense of humor and he takes a pet delight in kidding newspapermen, although he is careful not to do anything that would get the object of his jokes in trouble with his boss.

Getting "Married"
One of his favorite pastimes is getting himself married for the "newspaper boys." When he returned from a tour of Europe, which turned out to be a personal triumph for him, he was drawn away from the crowd at the pier for a "star chamber" interview with one of the veteran New York sport writers.

This writer had been tipped off that the champion was going to be married and he wanted all the inside dope. Dempsey, with a very serious face, filled him on all the details of the young lady, gave her dimensions, hinted at her place of residence, but he refused to give her name on the ground that it might embarrass her. Dempsey was joking but when the story was printed, a "beat" for the writer, he was careful to back it up and protect the writer who had taken him seriously. He never denied that he was planning to be married, but he maintains that the date "hasn't been set."

Dempsey once told a "close friend" that he would not marry again as long as he held the title, because he felt that he could not get the kind of a girl he wanted as long as he was such a prominent fighter.

The champion, according to an other very close friend, who has

has begun training at Babylon, L. I., for a return bout with Battling Siki, from whom he won the light heavyweight championship. The match is scheduled to be staged in Dublin in September.

Do You Know?

"What is the Navy's record in lacrosse?"

The Navy hasn't lost a lacrosse match in seven seasons. The nearest the midshipmen came to a reverse in that time was this season when Syracuse held them to a tie.

Did Willie Kamm lead the Coast league in batting last year?

No. Kamm ranked sixth among batters participating in 100 or more games with an average of .342. Paul Strand, of Salt Lake, with .384 led the league.

Has the Giants' feat of scoring in every inning in a recent game with the Phillies been duplicated in the past?

Scoring in all nine innings of a major league game was something that had not happened since 1897 until the Giants did it early in June. Teams scoring in every inning in which they battled were the Pirates in 1901, and the Red Sox in 1902, but inasmuch as they were the home team on each occasion, they went to bat only eight times.

Should Dempsey lose the title, he will lose the Jess Willard return battle that would get him more than $300,000 and the fight with Luis Firpo, the South American giant, that should bring him almost $500,000.

Dempsey also is not of the temperament that will have his work affected by that lead. He is a great "money fighter."

Some idea of the valuation that boxers are putting on themselves was gotten when Firpo replied to promoters who wanted to match him with Erminio Spalla, the European heavyweight champion, that he would accept the match for $100,000 in American gold.

Movieland Gossip
Dempsey's work in the movies caused many reports that he was about to be married to film celebrities and the stories all fussed him. "I wouldn't care so much about myself, but think how it must make some of those girls feel," he said several times.

Dempsey still remains more or less a boy outside of business. He doesn't like to confine his conversation to boxing, but he will argue for hours if any one questions his ability as a wrestler and in the emergency he is willing to demonstrate his skill with "holds and grips." He also likes to talk about acting and he really believes that he could have had a career in the movies "if he had the time."

The champion doesn't like to be called a prize fighter and he chooses to be known as the world's heavyweight boxing champion. He has corrected several references to him as a prize fighter.

Dempsey has a high regard for James J. Corbett, one of his predecessors and it is apparent that he wants to become a useful and substantial citizen like Corbett did when he stepped down as the heavyweight champion. Dempsey in all probability, will do that very thing as he is doing it right now. He has made a fortune—and he is keeping it. He told one of his friends once that—"They'll never hold a benefit for William Harrison," and he is making his promise good.

Dempsey and the Army
It has been the opinion of the writer that Dempsey was persecuted for failing to join up during the war. Some day the real facts of Dempsey's actions may be known and it will be learned then that his heart was right.

Dempsey knows that he missed a chance to become the greatest of all heavyweight idols. If he had his way about it he might have come back from France as "Sgt. Dempsey of the Second Marines" and he would have been the American Carpentier. But he didn't go and years and years from now it will be held against him.

YOUTHFUL CHICAGO RECEIVERS PRAISED

O'Farrell, Hartnett Best Catchers In League, Claims Veteran

CHICAGO, July 4.—Bobby Wallace, veteran shortstop of other days, who has starred in both major leagues, believes that in O'Farrell and Hartnett, the Chicago Cubs have the two best young catchers in the country.

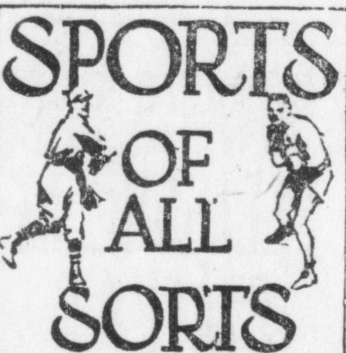

Wallace now is acting as assistant to Bill Killefer. He is proving a great help to the Cub leader in rounding out his youthful infield. The Cubs are a young club as a whole, the infield in particular, and is a team of much promise.

"Never in all my long career in the majors have I seen two better looking young catchers than O'Farrell and Hartnett," Wallace, in discussing the Cub backstops, said.

"Good catching is very necessary. The Cubs are fortunate in having two such fine prospects, at a time when Manager Bill Killefer is nearing the end of his days as an active player."

"These two youngsters can do everything. They haven't a single weakness. There never was a brainier catcher than Bill Killefer, and he has brought O'Farrell and Hartnett along slowly, and has developed two great receivers. If the Cubs were as well fortified in all other departments the Giants would be in for a lot of trouble."

"The Cubs are young and coming. Experience is lacking in several spots that can be gained only through actual play. Inside of two years Bill Killefer is going to have a club that will cause a world of trouble for pennant aspirants."

Among many factors that might be considered as giving Tom Gibbons a chance today is an important psychological influence that a Shelby setting will work for the challenger.

Gibbons in his fights around New York has shown a tendency toward cowardliness. In a small town like Shelby, where the crowd will not have the cosmopolitan atmosphere of a big New York spectacle, Gibbons will feel more at home, as his best work has always been in and around the "sticks."

If psychology is to be any important factor in turning the tide of battle, it must not be forgotten that Dempsey will be under a big urge to win.

Should Dempsey lose the title, he will lose the Jess Willard return battle that would get him more than $300,000 and the fight with Luis Firpo, the South American giant, that should bring him almost $500,000.

LOCAL IRRIGATION COMPANY REPORTS

The monthly report of W. A. Ralph, superintendent, has been received by the directors of the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company as follows:

"Work done during the past month is as follows:

"On the petition of David Hewes Realty corporation et al. for a company's ditch on the west side of Hewes street, have laid 1,644 feet of sixteen-inch pipe and constructed three gates, using two sixteen-inch iron backup gates; thus completing said petition, and the ditch is now ready to be accepted as a company ditch.

"We have raised the top of four gates on the sixteen-inch high line at El Modena to prevent overflow, using two twelve-inch and one ten-inch pressure gates in front of the wings.

"We have made 1,374 feet of eighteen-inch, 334 feet of sixteen-inch and 1,304 feet of twelve-inch cement pipe.

"The banks of open cement lateral ditches have been cleaned and have cleared around most of the gates on the pipe lines.

"We have cleaned the banks of the reservoir at Olive and banks along the canal.

"We have received and stored 999 sacks of Victorville cement."

S. A. MAN ON VISIT TO ERNIE JOHNSON

That Ernie Johnson, winter resident of Laguna Beach, who now is with the New York Yankees in a utility infielder capacity, remembers his friends in Santa Ana was evident here today on receipt by the Register of a letter from Ernest W. Gommel, 1610 North Flower street, who now is in the east on a visit.

Gommel's letter follows:
New York City, June 28, 1923.
"Sporting Editor,
"The Register, Santa Ana, Calif.
"Dear Sir:

"Just back from seeing Ernie Johnson, who is now with the Yankees. Looks good, feels fine and seems as good as ever. Seemed to be glad to hear from Santa Anans and on being asked about it spoke of Salt Lake City's gift to him.

"He mentioned a letter from Mr. Alex Brownridge of the bank. Seemed tickled to see almost anyone from Santa Ana. My partner and I are his guests at the Yankee stadium Saturday and Sunday.

"Yours truly
"ERNEST WM. GOMMEL."

PRODUCTION OF COWS IN JUNE DECREASES

A report of the Orange County Cow Testing association for June, made public here today, disclosed that there were 974 cows tested in the association, producing an average of 889 pounds milk per cow, with an average of 35.2 pounds butter-fat per cow.

W. L. Walton, Mike Babylon and C. J. Segerstrom & Sons had the honor of having the three highest producers for the month. Walton's cow produced 2035 pounds milk, with 32.6 pounds butter-fat. Babylon's cow, Leda Josephine De Kol Zatzaso, a registered Holstein, produced 2195 pounds milk and 84 pounds butter-fat. Segerstrom & Sons had a cow that produced 2000 pounds milk and 80 pounds butter-fat.

H. W. Rice made high score for a herd of more than 15 cows. His herd averaged 1074 pounds milk and 45.8 pounds butter-fat.

C. B. McCall made high score for a herd of less than 15 cows. His herd averaged 890 pounds milk and 41.2 pounds butter-fat.

The production, it was pointed out, has decreased somewhat from last month, when the association average was 928 pounds milk and 36.4 pounds butter-fat. This is generally to be expected during hot weather, it was made clear.

It was pointed out, however, that Cowies, who formerly was in newspaper work in the northern part of Orange county, has been attempting to promote California methods of handling fruit in the section in which he is now conducting a newspaper. It is possible that he has interested enough Florida growers to form a good sized excursion to this state. Women will accompany the party, if it comes, according to advances Irwin received from Cowies.

Would Use Legumes In Improving Soils

The use of legumes possesses a three-fold value in the improvement of soils; first, in absorbing and retaining the soluble food in the soil; second, in providing vegetable matter, or humus, forming material, which contributes to the physical improvement of soils; and third, by adding to the store of nitrogen in the soil, which element is most likely to be deficient, and which can be used by plants whose sole source of nitrogen is the soil. Fortunately, because of the number of plants belonging to this group, and because of their wide range of adaptation to the various conditions, it is possible to introduce one or more of them into the regular system of farm practice, without interfering with useful and profitable rotations. The Canada field pea, the soy bean, the cow pea and various kinds of vetch all possess a valuable power of appropriating for their use the free nitrogen of the air, thus contributing directly to the potential fertility of the soil.

Thousands of delegates, from all parts of the nation attending the convention of the National Education association in Oakland, today had heard a talk on the subject of "School Library Science," by Miss Mary Harris, librarian of the high school library here.

Miss Harris left for Oakland Monday night. A graduate of Pomona college, and later of the Los Angeles library school, Miss Harris has met with signal success in her work in the local library, and it was with gratification that her friends learned of her plan to continue her work here next year.

The Santa Ana high school and junior college library is declared to be recognized as one of the best school libraries in the state, and for that reason Miss Harris' talk at the national convention was received with keen interest.

FLORIDA GROWERS MAY VISIT COUNTY

W. M. Irwin, of Fullerton, today was awaiting definite word from Edward Cowles, newspaper man of Sarasota, Fla., as to the date Florida growers may reach Orange county on their proposed tour to California.

Irwin last week received a letter from Cowles saying he was organizing a party to come to the coast for inspection of the method of growing and packing citrus fruits in vogue here.

Cowies would travel on a train to be known as the "Orange Blossom Special." Details of the itinerary were lacking and Irwin wrote for more particulars.

H. E. Wahlberg, county farm advisor, said that Orange county men on the excursion last February to Florida had discussed with many of the growers organization of a similar party to visit California, but had been told that it was out of the question for the next year or two.

It was pointed out, however, that Cowies, who formerly was in newspaper work in the northern part of Orange county, has been attempting to promote California methods of handling fruit in the section in which he is now conducting a newspaper. It is possible that he has interested enough Florida growers to form a good sized excursion to this state. Women will accompany the party, if it comes, according to advances Irwin received from Cowies.

"Dear Ben: It's all over. I've done in Michael Pendean and put him where only Judgment Day will find him. Something drove me to do it; but all the same I'm sorry now it's done—not for him but for myself. I shall clear tonight, with luck, for France. If I can send an address—she's well and bright. When things have blown over I may come back. Tell Albert and Flo.

Yours,
"R. R."

Brendon examined the letter and the envelope that contained it. "Have you another communication—something from the past I can compare with this?" he asked. Brendon nodded.

"I reckoned you'd want that," he answered and produced a second letter from his desk. It related to Robert Redmayne's engagement to be married and the writing was identical. "And what you think he's done, Mr. Redmayne?" Brendon asked, pocketing the two communications.

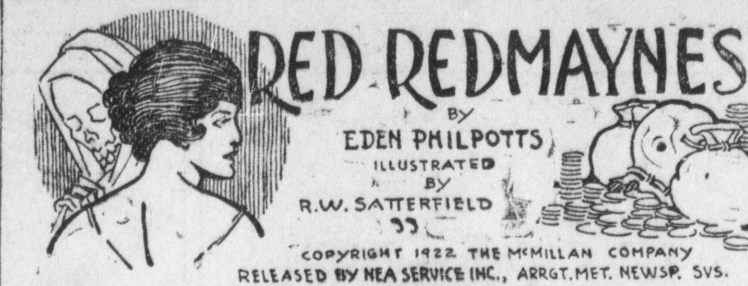

"I think he's done what he hoped to do. At this time of year you'll see a dozen Spanish and Britany onion boats lying down by the Barbican at Plymouth, every day of the week. And if you got there no doubt plenty of chaps would hide him when he offered 'em money enough to make it worth while. One aboard one of those sloops, he'd be about as safe as he would be anywhere. They'd land him at St. Malo, or somewhere down there, and he'd give you the slip."

"And, what it was found out that he was mad, he might hear no more about him."

"Why should it be found that he was mad?" asked Brendon. "He was mad when he killed this innocent man, no doubt, because none but a lunatic would have done such an awful thing, or been so cunning after—with the sort of childish cunning that gave him away from the start. But once he'd done what this twist in his brain drove him to do, then I judge that his madness very likely left him. If you caught him tomorrow, you'd possibly find him as sane as yourself—except on that one subject. He'd worked up his old hatred of Michael Pendean, as a shirker in the war, until it festered in his head and poisoned his mind, so as he couldn't get it under. That's how I read it. I had a pretty good contempt for the poor chap myself and was properly savage with my niece, when she wedded him against our wishes; but my feeling didn't turn my head, and I felt glad to hear that Pendean was an honest man, who did the best he could at the Moss Depot."

Brendon considered. "A very sound view," he said, "and likely to be correct. On the strength of this letter, we may conclude that when he went home, after disposing of the body under Berry Head, your brother must have disguised himself in some way and taken an early train from Paignton to Newton Abbot and from Newton Abbot to Plymouth."

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Michael, husband of Jenny Pendean, disappears from his home on Dartmoor. He is last seen in the company of Robert Redmayne, uncle to Jenny, when the two men visit a new bungalow being built by Michael near Fogintor Quarry.

Blood is found on the floor of the cottage and witness testify to having seen Robert ride away on his motor bicycle with a heavy sack behind the saddle. The sack is found in a rabbit hole a far distance from the scene of the supposed murder.
Mark Brendon, famous criminal investigator, is engaged by Jenny to solve the mystery. Jenny goes to live with her uncle, Bendigo Redmayne. Brendon calls at Bendigo's home and meets Giuseppe Doria, who works there.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
BENDIGO REDMAYNE grunted. "Come in and see the letter," he said. "I never thought you'd find it. It's all very terrible indeed and I'm damned if I understand anything about it. But one fact is clear: my brother wrote this letter and he wrote it from Plymouth, since he hasn't been reported from Plymouth, I feel very little doubt the thing he wanted to happen has happened."

"Then he turned to his niece. "We'll have a cup of tea in half an hour, Jenny. Meantime I'll take Mr. Brendon up to the tower room along with me."

Mrs. Pendean disappeared into the house and Mark followed her with the letter.

They passed through a square hall full of various foreign curiosities collected by the owner. Then they ascended into a large, octagonal chamber, like the lantern of a light-house, which surmounted the dwelling.

"My lookout," explained Mr. Redmayne. "In foul weather I spend all my time up here, three-inch telescope can pick up what's doing at sea, I bunk in the corner, you see. I often sleep up here, too."

"You might almost as well be aloft," said Brendon, and the remark pleased Bendigo.

"That's how I feel; and I can tell you there's a bit of movement, too, sometimes. I never wish to see bigger water than beat these cliffs during the south-easter. I last March. We shook to our heels. I can tell you."

He went to a tall cupboard in a corner, unlocked it and brought out a square, wooden desk of old-fashioned pattern. This he opened and produced a letter which he handed to the detective.

Brendon sat down in a chair under the open window and read this communication slowly.

"Dear Ben: It's all over. I've done in Michael Pendean and put him where only Judgment Day will find him. Something drove me to do it; but all the same I'm sorry now it's done—not for him but for myself. I shall clear tonight, with luck, for France. If I can send an address—she's well and bright. "Why should it be found that he was mad?" asked Brendon. "He was mad when he killed this innocent man, no doubt, because none but a lunatic would have done such an awful thing, or been so cunning after—with the sort of childish cunning that gave him away from the start. But once he'd done what this twist in his brain drove him to do, then I judge that his madness very likely left him. If you caught him tomorrow, you'd possibly find him as sane as yourself—except on that one subject. He'd worked up his old hatred of Michael Pendean, as a shirker in the war, until it festered in his head and poisoned his mind, so as he couldn't get it under. That's how I read it. I had a pretty good contempt for the poor chap myself and was properly savage with my niece, when she wedded him against our wishes; but my feeling didn't turn my head, and I felt glad to hear that Pendean was an honest man, who did the best he could at the Moss Depot."

Brendon considered. "A very sound view," he said, "and likely to be correct. On the strength of this letter, we may conclude that when he went home, after disposing of the body under Berry Head, your brother must have disguised himself in some way and taken an early train from Paignton to Newton Abbot and from Newton Abbot to Plymouth."

LEGAL NOTICE
No. 15661
NOTICE OF PUBLICATION OF THE ESTATE OF EDEN PHILIPPOTT, ILLUSTRATED BY R.W. SATERFIELD. COPYRIGHT 1922 THE MCMILLAN COMPANY. REPRODUCED BY NEA SERVICE INC., ARREST, MET. NEWS, SVS.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Michael, husband of Jenny Pendean, disappears from his home on Dartmoor. He is last seen in the company of Robert Redmayne, uncle to Jenny, when the two men visit a new bungalow being built by Michael near Fogintor Quarry.

Blood is found on the floor of the cottage and witness testify to having seen Robert ride away on his motor bicycle with a heavy sack behind the saddle. The sack is found in a rabbit hole a far distance from the scene of the supposed murder.
Mark Brendon, famous criminal investigator, is engaged by Jenny to solve the mystery. Jenny goes to live with her uncle, Bendigo Redmayne. Brendon calls at Bendigo's home and meets Giuseppe Doria, who works there.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
BENDIGO REDMAYNE grunted. "Come in and see the letter," he said. "I never thought you'd find it. It's all very terrible indeed and I'm damned if I understand anything about it. But one fact is clear: my brother wrote this letter and he wrote it from Plymouth, since he hasn't been reported from Plymouth, I feel very little doubt the thing he wanted to happen has happened."

"Then he turned to his niece. "We'll have a cup of tea in half an hour, Jenny. Meantime I'll take Mr. Brendon up to the tower room along with me."

Mrs. Pendean disappeared into the house and Mark followed her with the letter.

They passed through a square hall full of various foreign curiosities collected by the owner. Then they ascended into a large, octagonal chamber, like the lantern of a light-house, which surmounted the dwelling.

"My lookout," explained Mr. Redmayne. "In foul weather I spend all my time up here, three-inch telescope can pick up what's doing at sea, I bunk in the corner, you see. I often sleep up here, too."

"You might almost as well be aloft," said Brendon, and the remark pleased Bendigo.

"That's how I feel; and I can tell you there's a bit of movement, too, sometimes. I never wish to see bigger water than beat these cliffs during the south-easter. I last March. We shook to our heels. I can tell you."

He went to a tall cupboard in a corner, unlocked it and brought out a square, wooden desk of old-fashioned pattern. This he opened and produced a letter which he handed to the detective.

Brendon sat down in a chair under the open window and read this communication slowly.

"Dear Ben: It's all over. I've done in Michael Pendean and put him where only Judgment Day will find him. Something drove me to do it; but all the same I'm sorry now it's done—not for him but for myself. I shall clear tonight, with luck, for France. If I can send an address—she's well and bright. When things have blown over I may come back. Tell Albert and Flo.

Yours,
"R. R."

Brendon examined the letter and the envelope that contained it. "Have you another communication—something from the past I can compare with this?" he asked. Brendon nodded.

"I reckoned you'd want that," he answered and produced a second letter from his desk. It related to Robert Redmayne's engagement to be married and the writing was identical. "And what you think he's done, Mr. Redmayne?" Brendon asked, pocketing the two communications.

"I think he's done what he hoped to do. At this time of year you'll see a dozen Spanish and Britany onion boats lying down by the Barbican at Plymouth, every day of the week. And if you got there no doubt plenty of chaps would hide him when he offered 'em money enough to make it worth while. One aboard one of those sloops, he'd be about as safe as he would be anywhere. They'd land him at St. Malo, or somewhere down there, and he'd give you the slip."

"And, what it was found out that he was mad, he might hear no more about him."

"Why should it be found that he was mad?" asked Brendon. "He was mad when he killed this innocent man, no doubt, because none but a lunatic would have done such an awful thing, or been so cunning after—with the sort of childish cunning that gave him away from the start. A PUZZLE A DAY

Above is shown an incomplete "word-star." The puzzle is to fill each of the five blank circles with a letter (a vowel), so that five complete words may be read, two starting from the letter B; one from G; one from R and one from L, as indicated by the arrows. Each word will, of course, be composed of four letters.

Yesterday's answer:
The letters forming the sentence: ROME WAS NOT BUILT IN A DAY may be formed into the sentence: ANY LABOUR I DO WANTS TIME.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS—

A Sane Fourth

—BY BLOSSER

TALBERT

TALBERT, July 4.—Rev. S. C. Bockman has been on the sick list since last Saturday, when he was taken ill with a severe attack of acute indigestion while at the Shiffer home at Greenville. A physician was called and immediate relief was gained but Rev. Bockman was unable to return home until the following morning.

Rev. B. L. Giazner of Santa Ana, filled two of Rev. Bockman's appointments for the day, Sunday, preaching at Greenville in the morning and at the local church in the evening.

Rev. Bockman was sufficiently recovered to be up and about Monday.

Talbert, Lena Patterson of Santa Ana, spent Friday with her daughter, Mrs. Harry Harper, and in the afternoon the two ladies motored to Bolsa and visited Mrs. Roy Richardson.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenberry Presson and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Stroh, Mr. and Mrs. Landrum formed a picnic party to Laguna Beach Sunday, where they enjoyed the day's outing and a fine picnic dinner given in honor of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Stroh.

The ladies of the local M. E. church, south, gathered at the church Saturday and thoroughly renovated the auditorium and league room. All the wood work and the seats were gone over and the interior now presents a most pleasing appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. Presson and Raymond Donald and Thomas West were visitors for the day Monday at the D. C. Gilbert home.

Miss Fern Nichols arrived Saturday from Los Angeles to spend the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Proctor.

Ted Presson left Monday morning on an eastern trip, which will take him to Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Colorado, where he will divide the time of his absence among relatives and friends. Presson expects to return to California in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harper were guests of honor Sunday at the home of Mrs. Harper's mother, Mrs. Lena Patterson of Santa Ana, who entertained in honor of their sixth wedding anniversary. Other guests of the pleasant occasion were Mr. and Mrs. George Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Patterson and Miss Cora Embree. Some pretty anniversary gifts were received by Mr. and Mrs. Harper. Rev. Mr. Goode of Orange, who will have charge of the Mennonite services held each week at the local Japanese hall, was in charge of the meeting Sunday afternoon and Mrs. Goode assisted with the music. Mrs. Goode is quite an accomplished musician, playing the guitar and singing, also. On Tuesday evening a kitchen shower was tendered Rev. and Mrs. Goode by their friends and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Presson and Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Gilbert of this place, motored to Orange to be present.

Children and Mrs. Herman and three children are late arrivals in Talbert from Bentonville, Arkansas. Mrs. Herman is a daughter of Frank Pierce, who makes his home with his brother-in-law, J. O. Harper, and it was to the Harper home that the Hermans came upon their arrival last Friday. They will remain as guests for a week or so and will then occupy the Harper house located in the Gilbert tract on the boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. Harper and family and Mr. Pierce motored with their guests to the ocean on Friday evening giving them their first view of the sea and again on Sunday the party drove over to the Palisades for the day.

Lavaughn and Lewis Wells spent from Wednesday until Friday as guests at the home of their sister, Mrs. D. C. Gilbert.

The Misses Alpha and Deda Gilbert and Vanoni Worthy, who have been employed at an orange packing house at Ontario, returned home Saturday evening in company with Miss Callie Cox, Jack Worthy and Ellis Shaw, who motored over for them. The young ladies returned to Ontario again on Tuesday to work in the fruit cannery and were taken up by Lloyd Dakon and Ellis Shaw.

Fullerton School Science Quarters Will Be Enlarged

FULLERTON, July 4.—When school opens again this fall, students of Fullerton union high school and junior college will work in one of the best equipped and modern science departments of any similar school in California, in the opinion of E. A. Ames, acting head of the manual training department.

A corps of skilled cabinet makers and four students of the junior college are busily turning out the new equipment in the shops of the school. Mr. Ames says they will be kept hustling practically all summer.

In the chemistry department a number of benches will be placed with forced air circulation to take away the fumes of chemicals, and thus prevent any circulation of disagreeable odors through the laboratories. Hot and cold water will be placed at each bench, as well as gas and two kinds of electrical currents.

PRUNING URGED ON CULTURE OF MELONS

ons, may be allowed to grow after the shipping season.

"By the use of this method of pruning, the first big essential to successful marketing has been accomplished, that is:

"(1) It has made the major part of the crop from seven to ten days earlier, (2) it has increased the size of the melons, (3) it has given a uniformly shaped melon.

"Growers who practice these methods for a year will usually continue to do so. They maintain that they can get from one-third to one-half car per acre of melons averaging from 28 to 32 pounds by pruning, and on unpruned fields, they will harvest from one-sixth to one-third of a car per acre of melons that will average from 20 to 26 pounds."

Wintersburg, Smeltzer
WINTERSBURG AND SMELTZER, July 4.—Miss Elva Davis, home on vacation from Pasadena, where she attends college, spent several days as the guest of Mrs. A. M. Roberson.

Mrs. H. H. Hathaway, who broke her shoulder some weeks ago, is recovering rapidly.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Nelson and family have been attending church in Santa Ana this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Graham left the past week on a trip to Stockton. They expect to be gone two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Slater and family, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Turner and family, Alice and Cordeur Wilmarth of this place and Miss Irma DeBarr, Lenn DeBarr of Santa Ana and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Farar and family of Huntington Beach went grunion fishing at Los Patos Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Hadley, who are enjoying two weeks' vacation, left Monday evening on a mountain trip in company with Mr. and Mrs. Kooz and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Coolie.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Ray Moore and family and Mrs. G. M. Roberson joined a party of relatives Sunday evening at a surprise gathering at the home of Mr. Moore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Moore, in Santa Ana. The gathering followed the return home of Mrs. Moore who has been in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Hadley spent Sunday with friends at Balboa.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Nelson and family and Oscar Nelson motored to Whittier where they visited two cousins of the latter, Aubrey Herndon and Roy Morgan and family, who had just arrived from Seminole, Okla. It had been seventeen years since the relatives last met. Aubrey Herndon accompanied the visitors home and is spending the week as a guest at the Nelson home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hell and three children of Santa Ana were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Heil. In the afternoon the party was joined by Mr. and Mrs. George Harding and two children of Bolsa.

"But do you suppose it will be a 'sweet' role again?" that charming lady asked, when told that Robert L. Dempster, author of "Steve," now playing at the Princess theater, had arrived in Chicago with the manuscript of a new play written expressly for Mrs. Whiffen. "I'm really awfully tired of being sweet."

Mrs. Whiffen adjusted the black velvet band at her throat that was a foil to her white hair, and continued:

"You see, for years I've played the part of sweet sacrificing mothers and nice old grandmothers, and I'd like to be human again. I'm afraid I'll finally get as sweet and unselfish as the old ladies I play and that is a horrible fate."

Jess Reed, charged with a statutory offense against a 16-year-old Santa Ana girl, today was awaiting trial in the superior court here, having been held to answer by Justice J. B. Cox at a hearing late yesterday. Reed is at liberty under $500 cash bail.

Witnesses and spectators were excluded from the court room during the hearing yesterday, at the request of Attorney Clyde Bishop, counsel for the defense. Deputy District Attorney D. G. Wettlin appeared for the state.

EVENING SALUTATION

And thou, oh, fainting heart,
That shrink'st, when winds upstart,
And canst not rest in sorrow's bitter night,
If thou could'st only hear,
Faith's message in thine ear,
And calmly wait until the morning light!

THE FOURTH, IN CALIFORNIA

Some way, the Fourth of July means more to California than it does to residents of some other states. Some way, out here by the sunlit sea, where life is a little better and where hopes and aspirations are a little brighter than anywhere else in the whole wide world, America means a little more than it does in some of the big cities of the East.

We feel that we are still America's frontier. We stand face to face with whatever menace the Orient may hold for American institutions. We are imbued with the development of a new country, and we see things clearly.

We remember today that on the Fourth of July, 1776, California was not a part of the United States. Just previous to that year Spanish control of California was established. In the very year that our Declaration of Independence was flung to the world, two Spanish padres and a handful of Spanish soldiers hung bells upon a sycamore limb in the little valley of San Juan Capistrano, and pealed forth the coming of civilization to this section in which we now live.

For nearly half a century California remained under the Spanish flag. Then, in the '20's Mexico gained her independence, and California passed from the domination of European power. It was in 1947, with the raising of the Stars and Stripes by Commodore Sloat and with the campaigns in which Commodore Stockton, General Kearney and General Fremont engaged, that California definitely became a part of the United States.

The flag meant a great deal to California in those days. It meant stabilizing of conditions, it meant a guarantee of rights. It meant progress. It means all that today, and a great deal more than it did in 1847. Stability is more highly prized in the world today than it has even been. Without it, any land is lost. Without it, there is uncertainty, and strife, and darkness.

And so, this day, we hail the Stars and Stripes. This day, anew, we pledge our allegiance to it, and we proclaim our joy and our thanksgiving because it is our flag and because we, the fortunate people of the most fortunate state of this most fortunate of all nations, upon the edge of the Pacific, live beneath its folds.

"MY COUNTRY, RIGHT OR WRONG"

Jefferson, Hancock, Carrol, and others—patriots all! In the first flaring light of Liberty's torch, they read the Declaration of Independence. They read, and signed, and passed along the pen.

It was a day of war. The success of righteous war and the zeal and enthusiasm for victory was the chief object of patriotism. The soul of a new nation was in the balance, and any available means leading towards freedom was regarded as fully justified by the end. Thus it has ever been when America goes to war. America has never lifted the sword except in the defense of Liberty and Justice, and America has never known defeat.

In the days of war American patriotism is spontaneous—it never rests. But the patriotism of peace is more difficult to awaken. It is harder to awaken because the issue is more obscure, and because, in the patriotism of peace, reason is always in conflict with sentiment. The patriotism of peace is too often eclipsed by the theory and practice of the thing we call "good business."

We cannot consistently preach and practice patriotism in national politics if we ignore its principles in business. No man can violate the principles of sound and honorable business without injury to his community welfare. By such violation and injury to his commonwealth, he is just as disloyal as though he were unfaithful to our national institutions. If it is unpatriotic to stand in the way of our country's honorable progress politically, it is unpatriotic to engage in detrimental business practices. Our politics and our business each supports the other.

Today both duties and privileges are imposed upon the citizen that did not rest upon the patriots who signed the Declaration of Independence. The true patriot of today cannot rightly say "My country, right or wrong," UNTIL HE HAS DONE HIS UTMOST TO SEE THAT HIS COUNTRY IS RIGHT.

To be truly patriotic the citizen of today must be obedient to the laws which have been made by the nation and state and city, for the safety and guidance of the commonwealth; obedient to the conventionalities which good taste has established for the protection of the morals and sensibilities of the community; obedient to the ethical principles which good breeding and character have set up for the mutual benefit of man's physical and spiritual being.

FACTS TO A CANDID WORLD

Republican leaders in Washington are immensely pleased over the character of speeches President Harding has been making during his Western tour. They are pleased because he has dealt directly with facts and has not attempted to substitute oratory for argumentation. Instead of endeavoring to make a special appeal to the selfish interests of different sections of the country, he has courageously presented issues in localities where they are likely to be least popular. This course leaves the Republicans nothing to explain or retract or modify when the campaign for election comes around next year.

There is a general feeling of satisfaction because the President has not endeavored to create high-sounding phrases which might arouse enthusiasm for the moment but lead to reaction later. Not in a single instance has the Democratic press undertaken to controvert any statement President Harding has made regarding the record of his administration, or the attitude of the Republican party on national issues. Nevertheless, the reluctance of Democratic leaders to make any acknowledgment of the success of the Harding administration and the high character of President Harding's addresses, is indicated by the statement made by one of the leading Democratic papers of the country which said, editorially:

"What his administration has done to reduce taxes, which is not much, and to cut down extravagant public expenditures, which is a great deal more, constitutes a real claim to public approval."

GREAT UNGOVERNED CHINA

Imagine a population four times as large as that of the United States, without a government. This is virtually the situation of China today.

Federal government in China has broken down. It amounted to less and less under the Empire, and has almost reached the vanishing point in North China under the pretended republic. South China maintains the semblance of a government at Canton, under Sun Yat Sen, an intelligent, conscientious gentleman, but he is able to do little.

In America or Europe such a situation would mean temporary chaos, with a practical certainty of revolution and a long, bloody reign of violence under new leaders. In China it may not mean that at all.

For government, in our sense, has never meant a great deal in China. The Chinese people, with all their ability and virtues, seem to lack the political gift. They have a definite social organization and a code of morals, handed down from the time of Confucius, which keeps people in the old paths. They have their set ways of doing business, and business gets along pretty well without the help of government. The Chinese somehow seem to need policing less than the western peoples do. Bandits there are, and other types of parasites, but they are accepted as a matter of course and duly allowed for.

Thus the current of life sweeps on almost regardless of who the ostensible rulers may be, or what may be the type of government, or indeed whether there is any government at all.

This is something very hard for an American here in California to understand, yet it is a fact. And thus the present "chaos" in China may mean less than it appears to, except in so far as it affords a pretext for Japan or some of the western powers to intervene, for their own business reasons.

An automobile in Denver the other day was locked in high gear and ran that way continuously for 24 hours. A good many people run that way continuously for a whole lifetime.

Newport Beach Building

Newport News.

Every town in the country, almost, uses its building permits as indications of growth. No other official record is available to point to progress as are these daily and monthly reminders of development.

And so Newport Beach naturally feels proud of its record in this regard. The figures of Tax Collector J. A. Porter show a total building permits for the first half of 1923 at $283,790, as against $149,912 for the same period of 1922, a gain of about 45 per cent.

Old residents say that this is the best record ever made for this district and is a reflection of accomplishment for which any municipality may be proud. If this ratio keeps up, and every indication points to the fact, Newport Beach will be a city of 5,000 souls inside of two or three years.

Helping Newport Harbor

Riverside Press.

There are many reasons why Riverside city and county are interested in the development of a harbor at Newport. Newport is the beach nearest Riverside and it is the nearest coast point that citrus fruit and other products could be trucked to tidewater. And should oil be developed in commercial quantities in Riverside, it seems not unlikely, Newport would be the harbor easiest reached for the shipment of crude oil and its by-products.

A start has been made already in the creating of a natural harbor at Newport and Orange county boosters are determined that the job shall be finished—at least to the extent of making use of the harbor practicable for oil tankers.

After spending about $600,000 in the development of the harbor in the past three years, the Orange County Harbor Commission has recommended a bond issue of $1,000,000 in a report filed with the Orange county supervisors.

Should the voters of the county sanction the bond issue the amount would be expended in the building of a jetty on the east side of the harbor entrance below Balboa, deepening the entrance and channel and constructing adequate wharves and warehouses.

The supervisors have granted a franchise for an oil pipeline from the Huntington Beach fields to Newport and the interests awarded the franchise have made application for the use of the municipal wharf.

San Pedro harbor is greatly congested and lack of wharfage and docking facilities prevents loading and unloading of vessels for exasperating lengths of time. Development of another Southern California harbor would be a distinct aid to the entire shipping business of the State.

Co-operation of Consumers

San Francisco Chronicle.

There is a maladjustment of the economic relations among certain classes of producers and certain classes of consumers. Producers, in particular, of many food products do not get for their prices what enable them to maintain their accustomed standard of living. The high cost of producers may not be able to maintain even a greatly reduced standard without incurring debt, which in the end will break them.

At the same time some classes of consumers are in precisely the same situation. They cannot supply their needs from their incomes. The causes are partly beyond our control and can be remedied only by the very gradual readjustment of the relations of mankind. Some causes lie in legislation, which can be changed only as the people come to realize its necessity. Some of the trouble comes from the rapid and tremendous burden of taxation. Some causes lie in extra legal coercion of some classes by others, or individuals within the same class. The gist of the President's address at Idaho Falls is that our difficulties may be best solved by good nature and friendly co-operation among all classes. The President is right. Good nature and co-operation are the best solvents of all economic troubles. The President specifically avoids any detailed suggestions, obviously recognizing that varied situations will need varied treatments. But he does mention co-operation among consumers, which means co-operation not for selling but buying. Of that form of co-operation Great Britain furnishes the outstanding example, its wholesale co-operations serving local co-operatives being probably the largest trading corporations in the world. It is worth thinking over, but the fundamental thought is good nature, which is as important—and as greatly lacking—among classes as among nations.

Redlands Interested

Redlands Facts.

Orange county is promoting the interests of Newport Harbor. It is not often that two considerable harbors as close together as Newport and San Pedro flourish, but Southern California may prove the exception in this thing, as in others. In days gone by Newport was considerable of a port of entry. The lumber for the first house in Redlands was landed at Newport and hauled overland to Redlands. This county and this section in particular have considerable to gain if Newport harbor shall become a reality, as it is considerably closer by truck to Newport than it is to San Pedro or Wilmington.

THE FATHERS

By Berton Braley

The Fathers of our Country were in no wise afraid
Of all the might and power that George the Third displayed,
They signed the Declaration
Which made this land a nation,
Nor thought the price of liberty too heavy to be paid.

The Fathers of our Country, they held a vision true,
A vision of democracy, and bravely saw it through;
With all their strength they wrought for it
And what is more—they fought for it
And held their purpose steady as brave men always do!

Because their hearts were fearless, because their aims were just
Their spirit lives among us when all their bones are dust,
And if our nation flourishes
It is because it nourishes
The dream of human freedom in which they put their trust.

And this is our inheritance to hold and to maintain,
Not selfish isolation or sordid greed of gain
But faith in the ideal
Of making freedom real,
A light to guide humanity through all the world's domain!

The Fathers of our Country beneath its soil are laid,
But those immortal words they wrote shall never pale or fade,
And while their faith holds us
And their great vision folds us
Then, like our Country's Fathers we shall not be afraid!

Ma wouldn't leave me go out this afternoon for several reasons, the main one being because she thought I was passing her back when I was just tawking naturel, and she was in her room sewing on the sewing machine and I was in there thinking of asking her if I could go out and knowing it wouldn't be any use, and after a while I sed, Ma, hay ma, do you want any errands went? Do you want me to go around to the store for you for anything, or anything? I sed.

No thanks, ma sed.
And she kept on sewing, and pritty soon she sed, Ware on arth all my pins go to is a mystery. Do you want me to look for some for you, ma? I sed, and she sed, Yes, there must be a lot on the floor, and I sed I mean outside, I offen find pins on the pavement, ma, do you want me to go out and look for about a half a hour, ma?

I do not, ma sed. Me thinking, Aw heck. And I sed, Well G, ma, I mite find some money while Im looking for pins, if I do, ma, Ill give you half, shall I go out and see, ma?

No, ma sed, and I sed, Well Ill give you it all if I find eny. I wont even keep a cent. How about that, ma? I sed.

Yours too generous, I couldnt think of such a thing, ma sed. And she kept on sewing and I sed, Well hay, ma, I tell you wat, suppose I jist go out on the front steps and sit there so in case eny of your patterns blow out the window I can quick catch them before they blow all the way away and bring them back to you. How about that, ma?

How about going and doing your lessins? ma sed.

Wich I did, thinking, O well, nobody cant say I didnt try, enyways.

JULY 4, 17909

County Assessor W. M. Scott will turn over his assessment rolls to the board of supervisors tomorrow. He expects to show an increase in assessment totals. He said he had collected at least 1,000 more poll taxes this year than last year.

The Seventh Regiment, N. G. C., will hold its encampment July 20-30, at Bay City, this county.

District Attorney S. M. Davis has declared that he will take steps to prosecute those taking part in the proposed fights at Huntington Beach, should they be held. Davis said the state law would allow the fights to be held if conducted by some properly incorporated club.

A. C. Tiede has offered to sell the school board two and a half acres, on Flower street between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, for $4,000. The offer was taken under advisement.

For $4,000, the Los Patos Gun club has bought twenty acres in the Smelter lowlands, for gun club purposes.

G. W. Moore, manager of the Celery Growers association, says that the county is planting 3,000 acres of celery and that the output will likely be 2,000 carloads. The plants appear free from blight.

New Flag Code Tells
How to Display Flag

Which side of a line of flags should the American flag occupy? Which is the proper way to hang bunting—with the red or blue stripe uppermost? Is it proper to bedeck speaker's stands with draped flags?

These are a few of the questions arising just before every patriotic holiday. Few can answer them authoritatively.

In order to clarify mistaken ideas about use of the flag, and to promote greater respect for the American colors, the National Flag Conference, comprising representatives of all patriotic societies and officials of the army and navy, met in Washington recently. The result was a new Flag Code. Extracts from this follow:

Size of Flag

The proportions of the flag as prescribed by executive order of President Taft, October 29, 1912, follow:

Hoist (width) of flag, 1.
Fly (length) of flag, 1.9.
Hoist (width) of union, 7-13.
Fly (length) of union, 0.76.
Width of each stripe, 1-13.
Diameter of star, .0616.

When carried in a procession with another flag or flags the place of the flag of the United States is on the right, i. e., the flag's own right, or when there is a line of other flags the flag of the United States may be in front of the center of that line.

When displayed with another flag, against a wall from crossed staffs, the flag of the United States should be on the right, the flag's own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.

When a number of flags are grouped and displayed from staffs the flag of the United States should be in the center or at the highest point of the group.

With Other Flags

When flags of states or cities, or pennants of societies are flown on the same halyard with the flag of the United States the flag of the United States must always be at the peak. When flown from adjacent staffs the flag of the United States should be hoisted first. No flag or pennant should be placed above or to the right of the United States.

When the flags of ten or more nations are to be displayed they should be flown from separate staffs of the same height and the flags should be of equal size. (International usage forbids the display of the flag of one nation above that of any other nation in time of peace.)

When the flag is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony or front of building the union of the flag should go clear to the head of the staff unless the flag is at half staff.

Not a Drape

When the flag of the United States is displayed other than from a staff, it should be displayed flat, whether indoors or out. When displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's right, i. e., to the observer's left. When displayed in a window it should be displayed the same way, that is, with the union or blue field to the left of the observer in the street. When festoons or drapings of blue, white and red are desired, bunting should be used, but never the flag.

When displaying over the middle of the street at between buildings the flag of the United States should be suspended vertically with the union to the north in an east and west street or to the east in a north and south street.

When used on a speaker's platform the flag should be displayed above and behind the speaker. It should never be used to cover the speaker's desk nor drape over the front of the platform. Flown from a staff it should be on the speaker's right.

When flown at half-mast the flag is first hoisted briskly to the peak and then lowered to the half-staff position, but before lowering the flag for the day it is raised again to the peak. On Memorial Day, May 30, the flag is displayed at half-staff from sunrise until noon and at full staff from noon until sunset for the nation lives and the flag is the symbol of the living nation.

When used to cover a casket, the flag should be placed so that the union is at the head and over the left shoulder. The flag should not be lowered into the grave nor allowed to touch the ground. The casket should be carried feet first.

When the flag is displayed in church it should be from a staff placed on the congregation's right as they face the clergyman, with the service flag, state flag or other flag on the left wall. If in the chancel the flag of the United States should be placed on the clergyman's right as he faces the congregation.

Don't Dip Flag
Do not dip the flag to any person or anything. The regimental color, state flag, organization or institutional flag render this honor only to the flag of the United States.

Do not place any other flag or pennant above or to the right of the flag of the United States.

Do not place any object or emblem of any kind on or above the flag of the United States.

Do not use the flag as drapery, use bunting.

As to Bunting
Do not drape the flag over the hood, top or sides of a vehicle, or of a railroad train or boat. If it is desired to display the flag on a motor car affix the staff firmly to the chassis or clamp it to the radiator cap.

Do not display the flag on a float in a parade except on a staff.

Bunting of the national colors should be used for covering speaker's desks, draping over front of platforms and for decoration in general. Bunting should be arranged with the blue above, the white in the middle and the red below.

GIVES PROPER DATES FOR
REINHOLD BROTHERS WORK WITH GILMACHER STORE

Editor Register:—In yesterday's Register I am quoted as saying that twenty-five years ago the Reinhold Brothers worked in the Gilmacher store on West Fourth street. That is not correct.

In a more or less hurried interview with a representative of the Register with reference to the early business men and houses on West Fourth street I perhaps did not emphasize the different periods discussed as I should have done. The fault is entirely mine.

The Reinhold brothers managed the general merchandise store owned by L. Gilmacher between the years 1875 and 1886. The store fronted on Broadway and was located on the southeast corner of Broadway and Fourth street.

In 1886 the Reinhold Bros. went into business for themselves by opening a dry goods store at the location now occupied by the Spicer dry goods store. In 1900 they moved to their present location at East Fourth and French streets.

May I suggest an assignment for the very affable young man who called on me. That would be to interview Max Reinhold and get him to relate how he convinced L. Gilmacher that W. H. Spurgeon was not profiting where he asked $150 for a strip of land 20 feet on Broadway and 70 feet on West

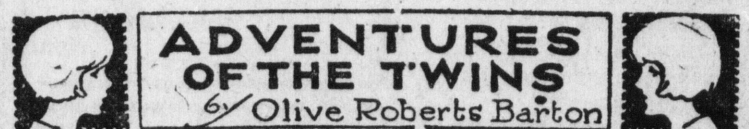

Fourth street, being part of the location now occupied by the American National Bank and the store west of it. Also Reinhold might be induced to give the reason for his temerity in investing the sum of $350 in the two blocks of land lying between Garney and Olive and Fourth and Fifth streets, at a time when West Fourth street was merely a wagon trail for the ox teams hauling lumber and proceeded from Anaheim Landing, then the port of entry for schooners plying between San Francisco and the south.

My hat is off to the pioneer merchants and business men of Santa Ana who blazed the trail for us newcomers of twenty-five to thirty years ago.

NO. 24—THE CHOO-CHOO TRAIN DISAPPEARS

Nancy took her sewing things out of her little pocket and sewed up Ruby Joan's head and tacked her shoe-button eyes firmly in place.

"Now you can look out of the window," she said, setting the doll up on her knee as the Little Choo-Choo Express made its return trip through Choo-Choo Land.

They stopped at all the stations they had stopped at before, but this time they didn't get off.

At China Town the Chinese doll was waiting at the station.

"Oh, I'm so glad you found her," she said kindly. "Now I'm going back to Doll Town where I live. Would you like to go, too?" she asked Ruby Joan.

"No, thanks," said the rag doll huddling up closer to her newly found mistress.

At Tick-Tock Town the grandfather's clock looked in the window.

"I see you've found your doll, young lady," he said in his deep voice. "Try to be more careful in future. When I was young, three hundred years ago, little girls were not so careless."

Too! Too!

The little train pulled out before old grand-daddy clock could finish his lecture.

At Tinkle Town all the bells began to toll at once. "Ruby Joan is found!" they called to each other.

At Mother Goose Town Bo-Peep peeped through the window. "Where did you find her?" she asked.

"In Lost Town," Nancy said. "Then I'll go there right away and look for my sheep," said Bo-Peep waving goodby.

The good news spread through Zoo Town and Circus Town and Bird Town and every place in Choo-Choo Land. "Ruby Joan is found!" shouted everybody.
